Report Heavy Laos Fighting

Red Supply Line
Focus Of Battle

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotian government troops and Communist forces were reported still battling today for control of the Plaine des Jarres in northeastern Laos.

Military sources said that government forces had withdrawn from the strategic town of Xieng Khouang but that the Communist Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops had failed to take it because of heavy bombing by U.S. and Laotian planes.

"The town has been flattened," a senior officer said.
"Xieng Khouang is a no man's land."

The Plaine des Jarres is a barren plateau of strategic value because main east-west and north-south highways meet on it. Xieng Khouang is on the southeastern edge of the plain, 20 miles from the North Vietnamese border.

Government control of the area could seriously interfere with the movement of North Vietnamese troops and supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail to South Vietnam.

Laotian army troops reportedly pulled out of Xieng Khouang on Saturday, after occupying it for a month because they considered further occupation futile. The population of 15,000 has fled to nearby towns in government-controlled areas.

The battle for the Plaine des Jarres has developed in the past month into one of the most serious engagements in Laos in more than two years.

Laird Talks With NATO

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and the other NATO defense ministers met today to discuss what has been done toward the increased contributions that their governments promised the North Atlantic Alliance after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Defense Minister Leo Cadijeux of Canada was expected to come under especially heavy pressure. He was expected to lay down plans for withdrawing nearly all of Canada's 5,500 ground troops and six air squadrons in West Germany.

"If one country takes something out," said a U.S. delegation source, "somebody else has to put it back in. We don't think highly of the Canadians taking anything out. The other governments with troops in the area are much concerned."

They are the United States, West Germany, Britain, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Laird spoke with Cadijeux for an hour Monday, pressing him to stretch out the withdrawal over as many years as possible.

Former LBJ Post Office Aide Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former top level Post Office Department official was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of bribery, corruption and conflict of interest.

Att. Gen. John N. Mitchell said Joseph P. Doherty was accused in a nine-count indictment returned by a special grand jury in Baltimore.

Doherty served as executive assistant to the assistant postmaster general in charge of the bureau of facilities under the administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The indictment charged Doherty with seeking and agreeing to accept a $20,000 bribe from Dominic Piracci Sr., a Baltimore builder, and the Piracci Construction Co. of Baltimore.

The indictment said Doherty, in return for the money and a promise of future employment, agreed to use his influence to help Piracci obtain a contract to build a new main post office in Baltimore and lease other postal facilities in Maryland.

The indictment also alleged that Doherty went to work for Piracci in June 1968 after resigning from the Post Office Department and, in the new position, used his influence in the postal system on behalf of the Baltimore builder.

Ohio To Vote Again On Open Housing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —
Negro members of the Ohio House were "playing it by ear" on an open housing bill which was due for a vote again today.

"We just don't know what will happen to it on the floor," said Rep. William L. Mallory, D-72 Cincinnati. "So we're playing it by ear."

Rep. William F. Bowen, D-69
Cincinnati, said if the bill "does not leave this House as meaningful legislation we don't want it."

Bowen said Negro legislators wanted the bill—which would extend open housing to one- and two-family dwellings—amended

Troop Pullout From Europe Again Sought

Mansfield Leads Forces Demanding
U.S. Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he soon will revive his resolution seeking substantial reduction of U.S. troop strength in Europe—a measure shunted aside last summer by the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Mansfield's proposal has the support of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the subcommittee on security agreements and commitments abroad as well as of Sen. J. W.
Fulbright who opposed the original resolution last year.

Fulbright said the administration should cut the number of bases in Europe and reduce its troops commitment there—the position advocated by Mansfield in a separate interview.

Mansfield said the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, which crystallized Senate objections to his pullback resolution, "appears to be a closed chapter now."

Mansfield said that, before seeking Senate action, he is awaiting a Defense Department survey of the possibility of eliminating some of the 2,700 American bases around the world—429 of them classified as major.

Fulbright says Spanish and

Train Fire Fatal To Man; 100 Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — An electrical fire, billowing clouds of acrid smoke, disabled a Penn Central commuter train in a Hudson River tunnel forcing passengers to walk a half mile to safety. One man was killed and 100 persons injured.

Coughing and choking on the blue-gray smoke, most of the more than 200 passengers climbed out of the stalled train Tuesday evening and groped through the darkness on a concrete catwalk to the New Jersey end of the tunnel.

The dead man was identified as William J. Thompson, 63, of Rahway, N.J., an off-duty conductor. He had stepped out when he was struck by the train, apparently as it lurched backward after coming to a stop, police said.

At the tunnel end in North Bergen, N.J., the passengers streamed out after their 20-minute walk through the stygian darkness. Most of the injured were treated for smoke inhalation and minor cuts. Only two were hospitalized.

"We walked holding onto the guard rail," said Robert Watterson, a passenger. "You couldn't see anything, but we heard encouraging voices saying, 'Keep moving, keep moving.'"

A Penn Central spokesman said the fire was caused by a

Youth Is Held In Jewelry Theft

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) —
A 17-year-old East Side Cleveland youth is being held without bond in the Cuyahoga County Jail here in connection with jewelry thefts in Dallas, Tex., and Nashville, Tenn., the FBI reported today.

The youth was arrested by federal agents last Thursday on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in connection with the theft of jewelry valued at $49,000 from Evert's Jewelers in Dallas May 12.

The FBI said the youth also is charged in a federal warrant with interstate transportation of unmounted diamonds valued

Yorty Wins Los Angeles Mayor's Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sam
Yorty, the underdog, rode a massive outpouring of votes to a third term as mayor of the nation's third most populous city today, defeating Thomas Bradley, his Negro challenger.

Jubilant over his comeback,
the mayor told cheering supporters they had brought him
"back from what appeared to be certain defeat." He pledged to make Los Angeles "a greater city in the coming four years."

Bradley, a city councilman who had hoped to become the city's first Negro mayor, won the April primary by 100,000
votes.

But his hopes in the nonpartisan runoff were dashed by the biggest voter turnout in city history—an 80 per cent vote that far exceeded the 66 per cent balloting in the primary.

For Yorty, the heavy vote
meant that voters in the predominantly white areas went to the polls in big numbers.

Bradley had run well in the white sections in finishing ahead
of Yorty in the primary. But public opinion polls—which consistently placed him ahead of the mayor—said he had lost
support in white areas.

Bradley refused to concede defeat, even though he was far behind and less than one percent of the vote had not been counted.

SAIGON (AP) — American
paratroopers moved out from the crest of Dong Ap Bia, the 3,000-foot mountain they seized a week ago, and pushed their search operations today along the nearby A Shau Valley.

"They have completed their search of the mountain and now are continuing their reconnaissance in force mission," said an officer of the 101st Airborne Division, which seized the mountain.

He added that the troops began moving off the top of Dong
Ap Bia shortly after daylight.

Hours later, however, a spokesman for the U.S. Command in Saigon said some American forces, described only as "a considerable group," still were on top of the mountain.

There was no immediate explanation of the discrepancy in the two accounts. The fighting for Dong Ap Bia cost 50 Americans killed and 300 wounded and 600 North Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed.

The action has become a matter of political controversy in
the United States. Sen. Edward
M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others did not think the battle and the American casualties were justified.

There are at times conflicts in accounts from the field and from headquarters in Saigon
during actions, sometimes because of communications difficulties or other reasons.

Spokesmen emphasized that the over-all operation is continuing in and around the A Shau Valley, a longtime North Vietnamese stronghold and a staging area for attacks on Hue and the big U.S. military base at Da Nang.

On the basis of the reports that the paratroopers were moving off the hill after 10 days of bloody fighting, a U.S. com-

Confederate Flag Flies At Coshocton

COSHOCKTON, Ohio (AP) —
When Coshockton area residents observe Memorial Day Friday
by visiting Oak Ridge Cemetery,
they will see the Confederate
flag flying atop a tombstone.

If it looks strange among the nation's red, white and blue
flags flying from other graves of veterans, there is a story that explains it.

The stars and bars mark the grave of a Southern soldier who died here while on his way home from a prison camp after the war. He is identified on the tombstone as William Webb of Company B, First Tennessee
Infantry.

Several union soldiers lie in graves nearby.

Local historians said Webb had been captured in 1864. Freed in an exchange of prisoners he died while traveling home to Tennessee. A Union veteran,
Joseph Sawyer, took care of his former enemy and tried without success to find Webb's relatives when he died.

A former city official, W. H.
Williams, and a former postmaster, Charles Lambertson, bought the grave marker in 1904 at Sawyer's request.

Thieu And Park To Oppose Cuts

SEOUL (AP) — President
Nguyen Van Thieu of South

today to oppose any unilateral withdrawal of allied troops—meaning Americans—from Vietnam.

Thieu, on a state visit to South

Park.

A spokesman for Park said
the chiefs of state discussed strategy for Thieu's meeting with President Nixon on Midway Island next month and reviewed U.S. and Viet Cong
peace proposals.

Food Stamp Expansion Seen Despite Ellender Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee predicts a substantial expansion—probably beyond administration recommendations—of the federal food stamp program.

But Sen. Allen Ellender also says he remains opposed to giving any free food stamps.

"I don't like the words 'free food,'" the Louisiana Democrat said in an interview. "I don't see how a family can't afford to put up $2 or $3 for food stamps."

The committee, which concluded hearings Tuesday, plans to meet the week of June 9 to write the legislation.

Ellender predicted the food stamp program, currently costing about $340 million annually, would be expanded to between $625 million and $700 million in the year starting July 1, and to between $1.2 billion and $1.5 billion the following year.

The Nixon administration proposed an increase to $610 million next year and to $1.3 billion in the following year. Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin said Tuesday draft legislation would be supplied to the committee by early next week.

Figures used by Ellender are larger than those recommended by the administration and by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., a committee member. But they fall short of those proposed by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the special senate hunger committee and an Agriculture Committee member.

McGovern has pledged to fight both in committee and on the floor for his proposal to add $1.5 billion to the food stamp program next year. McGovern proposes free stamps for families with incomes of under $80 monthly, while the administration would grant free stamps to those with incomes below $30 monthly.

But Ellender suggests private groups, including church organizations, could put up the minimal amount the very poor need to buy stamps.

Yorty Wins Los Angeles Mayor's Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sam
Yorty, the underdog, rode a massive outpouring of votes to a third term as mayor of the nation's third most populous city
today, defeating Thomas Bradley, his Negro challenger.

Jubilant over his comeback,
the mayor told cheering supporters they had brought him
"back from what appeared to be certain defeat." He pledged to make Los Angeles "a greater
city in the coming four years."

Bradley, a city councilman
who had hoped to become the city's first Negro mayor, won
the April primary by 100,000
votes.

But his hopes in the nonpartisan runoff were dashed by the biggest voter turnout in city history—an 80 per cent vote that far exceeded the 65 per cent balloting in the primary.

For Yorty, the heavy vote
meant that voters in the predominantly white areas went to the polls in big numbers.

Bradley had run well in the white sections in finishing ahead
of Yorty in the primary. But public opinion polls—which consistently placed him ahead of the mayor—said he had lost
support in white areas.

Bradley refused to concede defeat, even though he was far behind and less than one percent of the vote had not been counted.

SAIGON (AP) — American
paratroopers moved out from
the crest of Dong Ap Bia, the
3,000-foot mountain they seized
a week ago, and pushed their search operations today along
the nearby A Shau Valley.

"They have completed their search of the mountain and now
are continuing their reconnaissance in force mission," said an officer of the 101st Airborne Division, which seized the mountain.

He added that the troops began moving off the top of Dong
Ap Bia shortly after daylight.

Hours later, however, a spokesman for the U.S. Command in Saigon said some American forces, described only as "a considerable group," still were on top of the mountain.

There was no immediate explanation of the discrepancy in
the two accounts. The fighting
for Dong Ap Bia cost 50 Americans killed and 300 wounded and 600 North Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed.

The action has become a matter of political controversy in
the United States. Sen. Edward
M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others
did not think the battle and the American casualties were justified.

There are at times conflicts in accounts from the field and
from headquarters in Saigon
during actions, sometimes because of communications difficulties or other reasons.

Spokesmen emphasized that the over-all operation is continuing in and around the A Shau
Valley, a longtime North Vietnamese stronghold and a staging area for attacks on Hue and
the big U.S. military base at Da
Nang.

On the basis of the reports that the paratroopers were moving off the hill after 10 days of
bloody fighting, a U.S. com-

Confederate Flag Flies At Coshocton

COSHOCKTON, Ohio (AP) —
When Coshocton area residents
observe Memorial Day Friday
by visiting Oak Ridge Cemetery,
they will see the Confederate
flag flying atop a tombstone.

If it looks strange among the nation's red, white and blue
flags flying from other graves of veterans, there is a story that explains it.

The stars and bars mark the grave of a Southern soldier who died here while on his way
home from a prison camp after the war. He is identified on the tombstone as William Webb of Company B, First Tennessee
Infantry.

Several union soldiers lie in graves nearby.

Local historians said Webb had been captured in 1864. Freed
in an exchange of prisoners he died while traveling home to Tennessee. A Union veteran,
Joseph Sawyer, took care of his former enemy and tried without success to find Webb's relatives when he died.

A former city official, W. H.
Williams, and a former postmaster, Charles Lambertson,
bought the grave marker in 1904 at Sawyer's request.

Thieu And Park To Oppose Cuts

Nguyen Van Thieu of South
Vietnam and President Chung Hee Park of South Korea agreed
today to oppose any unilateral
withdrawal of allied troops—
meaning Americans—from Vietnam.

Thieu, on a state visit to South
Korea, met for 2½ hours with Park.

A spokesman for Park said
the chiefs of state discussed
strategy for Thieu's meeting
with President Nixon on Midway Island next month and reviewed U.S. and Viet Cong
peace proposals.

Rogers Gives Asians Word U.S. To Cut Involvements

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers is spreading the word across Asia that the U.S. government is cutting its involvement abroad and intends to have no more Vietnam.

While he has also given assurances that treaty commitments will be kept, Rogers has begun detaching the United States from the conflicts of Asia and promoting a substitute policy of regional self-reliance.

It is a big swing away from the policies which led the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations step by step into the Vietnam war.

Rogers, winding up his first foreign venture in personal diplomacy, will report to President Nixon this weekend that the initial steps in disengagement have, on the whole, been met with enthusiastic approval by the leaders he has talked to.

Associates credit much of his success to Rogers' style of personal diplomacy—easy, relaxed and low-keyed, the manner of the highly successful corporate lawyer confidently working over problems with his clients.

The chief danger is that with his friendly desk-side manner, the secretary may have given the impression of more support than he intended to foreign leaders seeking sympathy for their special causes.

President Yahya Khan of Pakistan said Rogers was sympathetic to his request that the United States resume the sale of tanks, artillery, planes and other arms to his country. Rogers thought he was being diplomatically noncommittal.

Asian leaders, who tend to be formally polite, haven't seen a diplomat quite like Rogers before. Although they evidently liked him, they will watch closely now to see what action the United States takes. By this, they can measure the extent of his influence with President Nixon.

mand spokesman in Saigon said: "There's no tactical reason to stay there."

"We feel we've gotten everything out of this mountain that we're going to get," another officer said.

There have been other costly hill fights in the war, and when they were over the Americans usually abandoned the hills.

Probably the most memorable was in November 1967 for Hill 875 near Dak To, in the central highlands. In that 17-day battle, 287 paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade were killed and 1,000 were wounded. The Americans claimed 1,641 North Vietnamese were killed.

Spokesmen emphasized that the operation which produced the battle for Dong Ap Bia—Operation Apache Snow—is continuing in and around the A Shau Valley, the North Vietnamese stronghold which the mountain overlooks.

The valley is a staging area for attacks on Hue, 30 miles to the northeast, and Da Nang 55 miles to the southwest.

The objective of Apache Snow is to hinder or destroy North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving from Laos into the A Shau Valley.

Red Cross Chief Held By Nigerians

GENEVA (AP) — Nigerian authorities arrested the International Red Cross Committee's special relief coordinator in Nigeria, August Lindt, at Lagos airport Tuesday night, the committee announced today.

The Red Cross said it had asked the Nigerian government for Lindt's immediate release and for an explanation of the arrest.

"We do not know why or how Ambassador Lindt was arrested," a spokesman said. "At the moment we feel that the incident must be the result of a misunderstanding, or possibly an excess of zeal on the part of an official."

The Swiss Foreign Office said it had been advised through diplomatic channels that Lindt had been arrested along with an assistant and two pilots. It said it had no further information.

Lindt is on temporary leave from his post as Swiss ambassador to Moscow. He has been running the committee's relief program in both Nigerian territory and Biafra since spring 1968.

A major part of this has been an airlift of food and medicine for the Biafrans from the island of Fernando Poo and from Cotonou, Dahomey.

Joey Naples Back In Pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph (Joey) Naples' six-year fight for freedom ended for the Youngstown man Tuesday when U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary ordered him returned to Ohio Penitentiary.

The judge acted on another order from the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The 35-year-old Naples, accused as a Youngstown racketeer, began his fight for freedom with his arrest in July 1962, and continued through the U.S. Supreme Court. He had been convicted by a Mahoning County Common Pleas Court in April 1964 on charges of possessing and concealing stolen materials and promoting a game of chance.

In December of 1964 he was released from the penitentiary on a writ of habeas corpus on recommendation of a former state assistant attorney general, John Cianflora. The latter was dismissed by the attorney general for his action.

Naples' two brothers died in gangland fashion in the Youngstown area.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Another heart disease expert, who suffered a heart attack himself, has come out for jogging with scrappy advice for more Americans to get with it.

"It is all very well to talk a good game of exercise, but to do it regularly is something else," says Dr. Irvine H. Page, a senior research consultant to the Cleveland clinic, and former member of the National Advisory Heart Council.

"I suggest the answer can be epitomized in 'get off your saturated fatty acids and move!'" Page Tuesday was amplifying in a telephone interview upon his article in the journal, Modern Medicine.

Page is 63. He suffered a heart attack two years ago, and took up jogging afterwards. "I'm probably in better physical shape now than I was before the attack."

The doctor also finds time for tennis doubles twice a week. "We can beat hell out of some of these younger kids," he said.

On fatty acids, Page said, "the public has decided that cholesterol is a bad thing, but they don't plan to do anything about it, except possibly try to dissolve it in gin."

If there is to be a general reduction in the intake of cholesterol, Page said, "It will come about chiefly because manufacturers and processors of food have so decreed it." This is more likely, he said, than persons altering their diets to reduce the fatty substance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Upjohn Co. enclosed $5 checks with materials sent to doctors that promoted the firm's product, says Sen. Gavioli Nelson, who added, "I think it raises a number of ethical questions."

Nelson produced a copy of promotional material accompanying the company's drug Lincolin. The advertisement said the firm hoped to use the canceled checks as an indicator of how many doctors were actually using the material.

The senator's drug subcommittee Tuesday also heard testimony from Commissioner Harold L. Lev Jr. of the Federal Food and Drug Administration that two drugs would be withdrawn after 10 years on the market.

Lev said the FDA will begin seizure June 14 of Mysterin-F and Panalab-two, because the agency is convinced one of their prime ingredients, novobiocin, is linked to such undesirable side effects as rashes.

The drugs are marketed by Upjohn and E.R. Squibb Co.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should chicken meat be allowed in hot dogs without saving so in large letters on the package?

Consumer and industry reaction to that question was mixed. The Agriculture Department said Tuesday, announcing the end of a 45-day period to collect comment on the proposal.

A new regulation would allow up to 15 per cent poultry meat in federally inspected sausages, hot dogs and bologna without a large-letter label. Poultry ingredients in excess of 15 per cent would still require a large label.

Stock List Stays Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued lower early this afternoon in fairly active trading with brokers reporting continued concern over tight money.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.33 at 934.33.

Losses outnumbered gains by some 500 issues. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 2.1 at 332.6, with industrials off 3.1, rails off 1.0, and utilities off 1.0. Conglomerates were generally lower.

Of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange, 13 declined, 5 advanced and 2 were unchanged.

Mobil Oil was the most-active, with 80,900 shares traded, and was down 1 1/4 at 66. On the American exchange, Austral Oil was the most-active issue, up 3 at 43 1/4. Home Oil Class A was up 3 at 77 1/4.

Tax On War Industry Profit Urged By Demo Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern and 14 other Democrats are seeking a new 37 per cent tax on defense industry profits generated by the Vietnam war, but even promoters of the measure concede they won't get it.

A similar McGovern move in March 1968 failed, 74-18.

A skeptical Republican said congressional approval of such a measure would amount to acknowledgement the war is going to continue for the foreseeable future.

"You just don't take that kind of step," said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. "We all hope the war is about over."

Williams, ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, said he sees little chance McGovern's measure will generate much support.

It did generate a series of speeches Tuesday, with the South Dakota senator declaring that no one should be "permitted to make unrealistic profits from war."

McGovern proposed the tax on excess war profits to supplant the 10 per cent income surtax. He said his measure would produce $9.5 to $10 billion a year.

"I'm for it," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, "I look upon it as a realistic proposal."

Local Youths Report For Service Duty

Three Pickaway County youths were inducted into the service on May 21 through the Selective Service System. Also during the month of May, five county youths reported for duty in various branches of the service as enlistees.

Reporting for duty with the U.S. Army at Ft. Hayes Induction Center, Columbus, were Larry G. Fannin, Route 4; Bryan V. Tatman, Route 1; Kingston and Carl Carver, no address.

Prior to departure from Circleville, the inductees were served coffee and doughnuts, donated by Lindsey's Bakery, by Red Cross Volunteers. Each man was also presented a packet of writing material and other items as a gift from Red Cross and Sertoma Club.

County men who enlisted during the month have reported for duty with their chosen branch of the service. They are Edgar H. Martindale, London-Groveport Road; David A. Warner, Orient and Robert Lee Burke, Route 1, Clarksburg, all now serving in the Air Force.

Jerry D. Myers, Laurelville and George L. Sadler Jr., 152 E. Water St., have reported for duty with the U.S. Navy.

But Mansfield said "The prospects are at best fair" for Congressional approval.

One draftsman of the Democratic plan said the outlook isn't even that good: "Really, the effort is just to make the record on the issue."

The taxable profits involved could be determined by a government-set rate of return on capital investment, or by the difference between current income and the average prior to 1965, the year of massive U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

McGovern said such taxes were imposed during World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict. He said Vietnam should be no different.

While McGovern proposed his tax as a bill, he can get a vote on it only by proposing its terms as an amendment to another measure, because tax bills must originate in the House.

Seven Receive Army Discharge

Seven Pickaway County youths received a discharge from the Armed Forces during the month of May. All completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Army.

Receiving service discharges were Robert McClarren, 119 1/2 E. Main St.; Terry G. Boyce, Route 2, Ashville; Jimmy W. Lowery, Ashville; John M. Smith, Route 3; Johnny W. Cordell, Route 1, Ashville; Clarence L. Wilkins, Route 4; and Paul M. Moorehead, 475 N Court St.

Rogers Gives Asians Word U.S. To Cut Involvements

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers is spreading the word across Asia that the U.S. government is cutting its involvement abroad and intends to have no more Vietnamese.

While he has also given assurances that treaty commitments will be kept, Rogers has begun detaching the United States from the conflicts of Asia and promoting a substitute policy of regional self-reliance.

It is a big swing away from the policies which led the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations step by step into the Vietnam war.

Rogers, winding up his first foreign venture in personal diplomacy, will report to President Nixon this weekend that the initial steps in disengagement have, on the whole, been met with enthusiastic approval by the leaders he has talked to.

Associates credit much of his success to Rogers' style of personal diplomacy—easy, relaxed and low-keyed, the manner of the highly successful corporate lawyer confidently working over problems with his clients.

The chief danger is that with his friendly desk-side manner, the secretary may have given the impression of more support than he intended to foreign leaders seeking sympathy for their special causes.

President Yahya Khan of Pakistan said Rogers was sympathetic to his request that the United States resume the sale of tanks, artillery, planes and other arms to his country. Rogers thought he was being diplomatically noncommittal.

Asian leaders, who tend to be formally polite, haven't seen a diplomat quite like Rogers before. Although they evidently liked him, they will watch closely now to see what action the United States takes. By this, they can measure the extent of his influence with President Nixon.

"We feel we've gotten everything out of this mountain that we're going to get," another officer said.

There have been other costly hill fights in the war, and when they were over the Americans usually abandoned the hills.

Probably the most memorable was in November 1967 for Hill 875 near Dak To, in the central highlands. In that 17-day battle, 287 paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade were killed and 1,000 were wounded. The Americans claimed 1,641 North Vietnamese were killed.

Spokesmen emphasized that the operation which produced the battle for Dong Ap Bia—Operation Apache Snow—is continuing in and around the A Shau Valley, the North Vietnamese stronghold which the mountain overlooks.

The valley is a staging area for attacks on Hue, 30 miles to the northeast, and Da Nang, 55 miles to the southwest.

The objective of Apache Snow is to hinder or destroy North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving from Laos into the A Shau Valley.

Red Cross Chief Held By Nigerians

GENEVA (AP) — Nigerian authorities arrested the International Red Cross Committee's special relief coordinator in Nigeria, August Lindt, at Lagos airport Tuesday night, the committee announced today.

The Red Cross said it had asked the Nigerian government for Lindt's immediate release and for an explanation of the arrest.

"We do not know why or how Ambassador Lindt was arrested," a spokesman said. "At the moment we feel that the incident must be the result of a misunderstanding, or possibly an excess of zeal on the part of an official."

The Swiss Foreign Office said it had been advised through diplomatic channels that Lindt had been arrested along with an assistant and two pilots. It said it had no further information.

Lindt is on temporary leave from his post as Swiss ambassador to Moscow. He has been running the committee's relief program in both Nigerian territory and Biafra since spring 1968.

A major part of this has been an airlift of food and medicine for the Biafrans from the island of Fernando Poo and from Conakou, Dahomey.

Joey Naples Back In Pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph (Joey) Naples' six-year fight for freedom ended for the Youngstown man Tuesday when U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary ordered him returned to Ohio Penitentiary.

The judge acted on another order from the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The 35-year-old Naples, accused as a Youngstown racketeer, began his fight for freedom with his arrest in July 1962, and continued through the U.S. Supreme Court. He had been convicted by a Mahoning County Common Pleas Court in April 1964 on charges of possessing and concealing stolen materials and promoting a game of chance.

In December of 1964 he was released from the penitentiary on a writ of habeas corpus on recommendation of a former state assistant attorney general, John Cianfonia. The latter was dismissed by the attorney general for his action.

Naples' two brothers died in gangland fashion in the Youngstown area.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another heart disease expert, who suffered a heart attack himself, has come out for jogging with scrappy advice for more Americans to get with it.

"It is all very well to talk a good game of exercise, but to do it regularly is something else," says Dr. Irvine H. Page, a senior research consultant to the Cleveland clinic, and former member of the National Advisory Heart Council.

"I suggest the answer can be epitomized in 'get off your saturated fatty acids and move!'" Page Tuesday was amplifying in a telephone interview upon his article in the journal, Modern Medicine.

Page is 68. He suffered a heart attack two years ago, and took up jogging afterwards. "I'm probably in better physical shape now than I was before the attack."

The doctor also finds time for tennis doubles twice a week. "We can beat hell out of some of these younger kids," he said.

On fatty acids, Page said, "the public has decided that cholesterol is a bad thing, but they don't plan to do anything about it, except possibly try to dissolve it in gin."

If there is to be a general reduction in the intake of cholesterol, Page said, "It will come about chiefly because manufacturers and processors of food have so decreed it." This is more likely, he said, than persons altering their diets to reduce the fatty substance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Upjohn Co. enclosed $5 checks with materials sent to doctors that promoted the firm's product, says Sen. Gavriel Nelson, who added, "I think it raises a number of ethical questions."

Nelson produced a copy of promotional material accompanying the company's drug Lincolin. The advertising said the firm hoped to use the canceled checks as an indicator of how many doctors were actually using the material.

The senator's drug subcommittee Tuesday also heard testimony from Commissioner Herbert L. Lev Jr. of the Federal Food and Drug Administration that two drugs would be withdrawn after 10 years on the market.

Lev said the FDA will begin seizure June 14 of Mvstacilin-F and Panalba-two, because the agency is convinced one of their prime ingredients, novobiocin, is linked to such undesirable side effects as rashes.

The drugs are marketed by Upjohn and E.R. Squibb Co.

Tax On War Industry Profit Urged By Demo Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern and 14 other Democrats are seeking a new 37 per cent tax on defense industry profits generated by the Vietnam war, but even promoters of the measure concede they won't get it.

A similar McGovern move in March 1968 failed, 74-18.

A skeptical Republican said congressional approval of such a measure would amount to an acknowledgement the war is going to continue for the foreseeable future.

"You just don't take that kind of step," said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. "We all hope the war is about over."

Williams, ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, said he sees little chance McGovern's measure will generate much support.

It did generate a series of speeches Tuesday, with the South Dakota senator declaring that no one should be "permitted to make unrealistic profits from war."

McGovern proposed the tax on excess war profits to supplement the 10 per cent income surtax. He said his measure would produce $9.5 to $10 billion a year.

"I'm for it," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. "I look upon it as a realistic proposal."

Local Youths Report For Service Duty

Three Pickaway County youths were inducted into the service on May 21 through the Selective Service System. Also during the month of May, five county youths reported for duty in various branches of the service as enlistees.

Reporting for duty with the U.S. Army at Ft. Hayes Induction Center, Columbus, were Larry G. Fannin, Route 4; Bryan V. Tatman, Route 1; Kingston and Carl Carver, no address.

Prior to departure from Circleville, the inductees were served coffee and doughnuts, donated by Lindsey's Bakery, by Red Cross Volunteers. Each man was also presented a packet of writing material and other items as a gift from Red Cross and Sertoma Club.

County men who enlisted during the month have reported for duty with their chosen branch of the service. They are Edgar H. Martindale, London-Groveport Road; David A. Warner, Orient and Robert Lee Burke, Route 1, Clarksburg, all now serving in the Air Force.

Jerry D. Myers, Laurelsville and George L. Sadler Jr., 152 E. Water St., have reported for duty with the U.S. Navy.

But Mansfield said "The prospects are at best fair" for Congressional approval.

One draftsman of the Democratic plan said the outlook isn't even that good: "Really, the effort is just to make the record on the issue."

The taxable profits involved could be determined by a government-set rate of return on capital investment, or by the difference between current intake and the average prior to 1965, the year of massive U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

McGovern said such taxes were imposed during World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict. He said Vietnam should be no different.

While McGovern proposed his tax as a bill, he can get a vote on it only by proposing its terms as an amendment to another measure, because tax bills must originate in the House.

Seven Receive Army Discharge

Seven Pickaway County youths received a discharge from the Armed Forces during the month of May. All completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Army.

Receiving service discharges were Robert McClarren, 119 1/2 E. Main St.; Terry G. Boyce, Route 2, Ashville; Jimmy W. Lowery, Ashville; John M. Smith, Route 3; Johnny W. Cordell, Route 1, Ashville; Clarence L. Wilkins, Route 4 and Paul M. Moorehead, 475 N. Court St.

1st Negro Combat General Proud Of Men In Vietnam

The Circleville Herald, Wed. May 23, 1969 3
Circleville, Ohio

SAIGON (AP) — Stocky, salty-tongued Frederic Ellis Davidson is going home Wednesday, ending 18 months in Vietnam that made Army history. He became the first Negro general to command American infantrymen in combat.

An outspoken opponent of black militancy, unashamed to use so-called clichés such as "the American dream," Davidson says:

"This has been my one big chance to make it come true and I did my best."

The 31-year-old general is proud that his 199th Light Infantry Brigade never had a man court-martialed for refusing combat. He is equally proud that no man, Negro or white, was ever left behind by his buddies during a firefight. The 4,500-man brigade lists only two men missing in action—a technicality because the bodies could not be recovered though the two were known to be dead.

This is the kind of detailed information Davidson keeps up to date in a little notebook.

If you ask him an estimate of such and such an action he will shoot back: "Well, I can tell you exactly," and the notebook comes out of a pocket.

He has made a little welcoming speech to every group of replacements that has come into the brigade. The speech varies a bit, but always makes it unmistakably plain that race has no place in the Army.

You find no black militants, at least outwardly, in the 199th although the brigade is perhaps 15 per cent Negro. Neither do you find the little Confederate flags that whites sometimes display in other units.

Although Davidson personally insists that the question of race has no place in the Army, the fact that he is a Negro has been privately noted at every turn of his career in Vietnam.

As black militancy won attention in the United States, Davidson's command post in an abandoned fishnet factory eight miles south of Saigon became a port of call for countless reporters writing about the Negro in Vietnam.

His acid condemnation of black extremism in the States and his defense of Army racial policies in general were told to all, along with his own unbending demand for absolute racial equality. In such discussions, he never ducked a question or went "off the record." Such militants as Stokely Carmichael got the rough edge of his tongue. So did white extremism, left or right.

Some reporters came away impressed by his sincerity. A few called him a "one-star Uncle Tom."

One of his own staff officers said: "He is the most opinionated moderate I have ever known. He goes right down the middle like the sides don't exist."

Though daily aware he was under such examination, Davidson gave no sign of irritation. Reporters were always welcome to spend the day with him, hedge-hopping the paddies in his command helicopter.

His area of operations was a wide swath of paddyland south-west of Saigon stretching westward into a wasteland of former plantation land, under brush and canals called "the Pineapple," and then still farther west to the Sea of Reeds, a wild and desolate marsh where the Viet Cong has always found sanctuary.

Dotted through the area are little American and South Vietnamese militia camps. Davidson's command chopper took him daily to these steaming hot and isolated posts, where he talked with the commanders and moved among the GIs.

"You guys have any bitches?" he asked.

"How's the chow—I won't comment on the quality, but are you getting enough of it?"

"Come on, let's have it. You can't be all that happy out here."

Awkwardly, the GIs began to talk. One got permission to go to brigade headquarters to check on his mixed-up pay. Out came the notebook to make sure the case was followed up.

In a way it was a standard Army performance—by the book. Soldiers nowadays see too many generals to be overly impressed by rank. The 199th however, knows it is the only brigade ever commanded by a Negro. The GIs are sort of proud of the distinction. Many will be sorry to see Davidson go—an achievement not often attained by brigade commanders, who generally change every six months.

The fact that Davidson has spent 18 months with one brigade is partly luck.

He came to Vietnam as a lieutenant colonel and assistant brigade commander. Normally he would have spent 12 months in the country and gone home, or received his one star as a brigadier and been transferred to another job.

When the Tet offensive struck last year Davidson was acting commander of the brigade, in the temporary absence of the commanding general.

The brigade killed an estimated 900 Viet Cong in the first four days of fighting around Saigon.

Later, when Davidson received his promotion to brigadier and was awaiting transfer to another job, the 199th's then commander was wounded. Davidson again took temporary command and was given to him permanently by the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams—who calls Davidson one of the finest soldiers he has ever served with.

Davidson is the third Negro in U.S. military history to become a general. Army Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis made the rank right after World War I but never commanded troops as a general. His son, Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., is still on active duty with the Air Force.

Davidson recalls that he had to make promotions the hard way, by extra effort after getting an ROTC commission from Howard University. He saw World War II combat duty in Italy with the then-segregated Army.

"The discrimination I experienced myself in the early years was the requirement to do just a little more to achieve the same rate of advancement, he says.

"In general, this is not true today."

He will be leaving for Washington, where his wife and three daughters live, and assignment in the Army Inspector General's office at the Pentagon.

"These kids over here are magnificent," he says. "I can raise hell with them as a brigade commander but nobody else had better try it."

1st Negro Combat General Proud Of Men In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Stocky, salt-tongued Frederic Ellis Davidson is going home Wednesday, ending 18 months in Vietnam that made Army history. He became the first Negro general to command American infantrymen in combat.

An outspoken opponent of black militancy, unashamed to use so-called clichés such as "the American dream," Davidson says:

"This has been my one big chance to make it come true and I did my best."

The 51-year-old general is proud that his 199th Light Infantry Brigade never had a man court-martialed for refusing combat. He is equally proud that no man, Negro or white, was ever left behind by his buddies during a firefight. The 4,500-man brigade lists only two men missing in action—a technicality because the bodies could not be recovered though the two were known to be dead.

This is the kind of detailed information Davidson keeps up to date in a little notebook.

If you ask him an estimate of such and such an action he will shoot back: "Well, I can tell you exactly," and the notebook comes out of a pocket.

He has made a little welcoming speech to every group of replacements that has come into the brigade. The speech varies a bit, but always makes it unmistakably plain that race has no place in the Army.

You find no black militants, at least outwardly, in the 199th although the brigade is perhaps 15 per cent Negro. Neither do you find the little Confederate flags that whites sometimes display in other units.

Although Davidson personally insists that the question of race has no place in the Army, the fact that he is a Negro has been privately noted at every turn of his career in Vietnam.

As black militancy won attention in the United States, Davidson's command post in an abandoned fishnet factory eight miles south of Saigon became a port of call for countless reporters writing about the Negro in Vietnam.

His acid condemnation of black extremism in the States and his defense of Army racial policies in general were told to all, along with his own unbending demand for absolute racial equality. In such discussions, he never ducked a question or went "off the record." Such militants as Stokely Carmichael got the rough edge of his tongue. So did white extremists, left or right.

Some reporters came away impressed by his sincerity. A few called him a "one-star Uncle Tom."

One of his own staff officers said: "He is the most opinionated moderate I have ever known. He goes right down the middle like the sides don't exist."

Though daily aware he was under such examination, Davidson gave no sign of irritation. Reporters were always welcome to spend the day with him, hedge-hopping the paddies in his command helicopter.

His area of operations was a wide swath of paddyland southwest of Saigon, stretching westward into a wasteland of former plantation land, under brush and canals called "the Pineapple," and then still farther west to the Sea of Reeds, a wild and desolate marsh where the Viet Cong has always found sanctuary.

Dotted through the area are little American and South Vietnamese militia camps. Davidson's command chopper took him daily to these steaming hot and isolated posts, where he talked with the commanders and moved among the GIs.

"You guys have any hitches?" he asked.

"How's the chow—I won't comment on the quality, but are you getting enough of it?"

"Come on, let's have it. You can't be all that happy out here."

Awkwardly, the GIs began to talk. One got permission to go to brigade headquarters to check on his mixed-up pay. Out came the notebook to make sure the case was followed up.

In a way it was a standard Army performance—by the book. Soldiers nowadays see too many generals to be overly impressed by rank. The 199th however, knows it is the only brigade ever commanded by a Negro. The GIs are sort of proud of the distinction. Many will be sorry to see Davidson go—an achievement not often attained by brigade commanders, who generally change every six months.

The fact that Davidson has spent 18 months with one brigade is partly luck.

He came to Vietnam as a lieutenant colonel and assistant brigade commander. Normally he would have spent 12 months in the country and gone home, or received his one star as a brigadier and been transferred to another job.

The brigade killed an estimated 900 Viet Cong in the first four days of fighting around Saigon. Later, when Davidson received his promotion to brigadier and was awaiting transfer to another job, the 199th's then commander was wounded. Davidson again took temporary command and was given to him permanently by the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams—who calls Davidson one of the finest soldiers he has ever served with.

Davidson is the third Negro in U.S. military history to become a general. Army Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis made the rank right after World War I but never commanded troops as a general. His son, Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., is still on active duty with the Air Force.

Davidson recalls that he had to make promotions the hard way, by extra effort after getting an ROTC commission from Howard University. He saw World War II combat duty in Italy with the then-segregated Army.

"The discrimination I experienced myself in the early years was the requirement to do just a little more to achieve the same rate of advancement, he says.

"In general, this is not true today."

He will be leaving for Washington, where his wife and three daughters live, and assignment in the Army Inspector General's office at the Pentagon.

"These kids over here are magnificent," he says. "I can raise hell with them as a brigade commander but nobody else had better try it."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Investment managers of the nation's pension plans are confronted with a continuing question: What is a prudent man?

It is no idle speculation, but a pragmatic question on how to invest these huge pension funds, estimated in excess of $100 billion, for the maximum return with the minimum risk.

The prudent man theory or how to invest a reasonable man act, is the guiding rule for pension investments—since these funds represent economic security for millions of Americans in their older age.

Ten years ago when inflation was not the problem it is today, most pension funds were invested in conservative fixed income securities, usually government obligations.

"That was prudent a decade ago," says a New York banker. "But is it prudent today? Obviously not, with this inflationary trend."

Inflation, increased benefits and widespread demand for performance have forced pension plans to seek a greater return on their investments, thus the swing to common stocks and convertible bonds. Today pension plans are the largest group of stockholders with a combined holdings of $30 billion.

Government figures show that pension plans are buying more, trading more and apparently enjoying it more, as their assets have increased by 20 per cent during the last three years.

With all this activity are pension plans taking unnecessary risks?

"Not at all," says Paul Howell, a national pension consultant. "Pensions are uniquely suited for common stock investment because they are true long-term holders of equities they can ride out the storms and stresses of the market and they receive preferred tax treatment."

"You have to take prudent risks to do right by your people," says Frank Cummings, a top aide to Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who recently introduced a bill to regulate pensions, mainly as they relate to meeting payments to individual workers.

"We don't see any need for investment regulation, yet," Cummings added.

Recently eyebrows were raised in financial circles when pension funds were channeled into volatile, glamor companies that operate gambling casinos.

"I wouldn't touch them they're not my cup of tea," says the investment manager of a $100-million, growth oriented pension plan. "But a slot machine is a great source of income—if you own it," he added.

Some pension plans are taking what they consider prudent risks by investing in growth oriented issues rather than the blue chips. Bankers Trust of New York set up a special fund for pensions seeking price appreciation.

"What is a risk. It's all a matter of degree. Fifteen years ago Xerox was considered a risk and look at it today," says a Bankers spokesman.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

INTERNATIONAL spies aren't the only ones who intercept important notes. Here's the correspondence spirited away from a boy and girl who sat next to each other in a third grade class. Wrote the boy, "Dear Judy: I love you. Do you love me?" Jonathan. Answered the girl, "Dear Jonathan: I do NOT love you. I hate you. Love, Judy."

Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Freeman ran into a spot of trouble when he agreed to address a group of bigwigs in the farm set at Minneapolis one afternoon. He began modestly enough: "There must be a thousand men operating in the field of agriculture who know more about the subject than I do," but then, aware that he was tarnishing his reputation as an expert, he blurted, "but I don't see any of them in this room!"

Kathleen Szast's "Petishism" is not only a fascinating study of the lengths to which some people will go to pamper their pets but is replete with such choice tidbits as:

1. The Earl of Cranbrook feeds his favorite bats on a choice mixture of egg yolk, cream cheese and banana.
2. The owner of a great Dane dressed him up in top hat and tails so the dog wouldn't feel out of place at a fashionable wedding.
3. An Italian housewife was granted a divorce because her pet-loving spouse shared his bed with 30 cats and 6 dogs—and made her sleep in another room.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the most unusual letters I have ever received from my readers came from a physician who is in the active practice of medicine in a large city in Ohio.

It reads: "Dear Doctor Coleman: I follow your articles regularly and like them particularly because they do not instill fear in readers. I find that my own patients seem to understand your explanation of the nature of illness and, therefore, follow my directions with greater regularity. The fact that you do not describe symptoms avoids instilling fears in patients who are already terrified in many instances. . . you state at the end of your columns that 'all the hopeful advances in medicine are known to doctors everywhere.' From this, my patients glean that 'special' knowledge of any disease is not the private property of a few. This is important to me in maintaining the faithful relationship that we physicians try so hard to establish with our patients."

"Now, Doctor Coleman, could you do physicians a favor by telling your readers some of the problems that doctors have trying to squeeze into limited time the examination and treatment of diseases, the answering of telephones, and some of the burdens placed on them by patients who do not consider our own right and need for physical and emotional rest?"

Let me thank this physician for taking time out of a busy schedule to write to me and to offer understanding for the objectives in the columns. I do try to emphasize hope and, especially, aim at solidifying the valuable relationship between doctors and their patients.

In a society where 35 or 40 hours of weekly work is considered usual, it undoubtedly must come as a surprise to know that doctors probably spend twice that amount of time in their offices, in the hospitals, in clinics and answering the bombarding telephone calls. It is understandable that patients are anxious about their illness and it is this anxiety that induces them to telephone the doctor at home, at dinner, in what should be restful hours and even to disturb his sleep in the middle of the night. Most patients are remarkably understanding and avoid interrupting those few leisure, restful moments, but some

Trade Unions Boo Romney

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When George Romney, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, went before a building and construction trades conference and attacked the restrictive practices of the unions, he was roundly booed.

The building trades, satisfied with the Supreme Court 5-4 decision in the so-called Philadelphia Door case which has justified boycotts aimed against the installation of prefabricated doors at construction sites, just don't want to see money-saving automobile assembly line techniques applied to the housing industry. But Romney is a stubborn fellow. If his "Operation Breakthrough" program for pooling the housing needs of the cities into a single "mass market" doesn't get anywhere, we will very probably witness an explosion followed by a resignation.

The building trades unions are, of course, a well-trenched bunch. And President Nixon who has been wooing labor, isn't anxious to tangle with an important segment of the AFL-CIO especially when he is getting support for his foreign policy and his ABM program from AFL-CIO President George Meany. But George Romney has things going for him in Congress, where the anger over restrictive union practices has been mounting.

Romney as he looks at Capitol Hill, must be pinching himself as he contemplates some of his newest supporters. For the united front that is forming to break down restrictionism in the building trades cuts across the whole ideological spectrum. Last year Senator Philo A. Hart of Michigan a liberal Democrat whose daughter was one of the sparkplugs of the McCarthy for President movement, introduced an amendment to a housing act which would require any construction financed by the government to make use of the new labor-saving techniques. Hart comes from a labor state, but it is one that understands mass production techniques, and Michigan workers would probably profit greatly if their employers were able to enter the prefabricated housing field.

The movement started by Senator Hart has leaped right across the legislative aisles. George Romney once refused to endorse Senator Barry Goldwater for President but Goldwater has just come to Romney's aid by offering a bill which would make any boycott of prefabricated materials in the construction industry an unfair labor practice under Section Eight of the National Labor Relations Act. As Goldwater puts it, his bill is "intended to release the industry from irrational rules which limit innovation and spiral costs to the detriment of national policies which should override special interests". George Romney couldn't ask for anything more.

Working on their own, two other conservative Republican Senators have also offered bills to outlaw restrictive boycotts in the building field. One bill was introduced by South Carolina's Strom Thurmond in the last session of Congress. The other bill has recently been thrown into the hopper by Ed Gurney of Florida. The matter is rendered all the more poignant when one considers that Romney, if he had persisted in his campaign to become the Republican Presidential nominee, wouldn't have been caught dead asking political aid from Goldwater, Thurmond or Gurney. He would have preferred help from Democratic Senator Hart.

If the move to legitimize the use of prefabricated materials in housing construction can get such bipartisan support in the Senate, Romney's plan for building between 250,000 and 350,000 housing units a year stands the glimmering of a chance. Oddly, the more conservative the country grows, the better the Romney prospects will be. The construction unions won't give way with any grace to the use of prefabricated materials at building sites and their restrictive practices remain at their worst where mayors are most liberal. On the other hand, a report from the National Federation of Independent Business tells us that the Mayor Daley government in Chicago, which is hated by the liberals, has been busy working out an arrangement with local unions to build modular four-bedroom homes with fully equipped kitchens for some $18,000 each, to be sold at $350 down.

George Romney and Dick Daley form another unlikely axis, but there it is.

Academy Overhaul

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar, Hollywood's favorite whipping boy, is taking it again. This time it's the directors who are up in arms over an alleged slight to their profession.

The Motion Picture Academy made a 56-minute capsule of last month's awards affair for televising in foreign countries. Many of the awards in the two-hour show had to be eliminated and Carol Reed, named best director for "Oliver!", landed on the cutting-room floor.

The Directors Guild of America was incensed, even though Britisher Reed was not a member. Academy President Gregory Peck replied that the capsule version had been an experiment and the director award would be included next year.

That didn't satisfy the directors. They insisted on a public apology. The Academy's answer awaits the return of Peck from Europe.

Among the directors who protested individually was George Sidney. "It won't happen again" is not good enough. The Academy membership, its methods, aims, ideals, must be overhauled," he said.

Peck has appointed a committee to look into membership, particularly as it affects the voting for the Oscars. A study of the Academy's membership list indicates that an overhaul is overdue.

"The Academy is an honorary organization of industry craftsmen." So reads the official pronouncement.

The Academy's by-laws declare: "Invitations to active membership shall be limited to those persons employed by motion picture producing companies or credited with screen achievements, who in the opinion of the Board are qualified for membership by virtue of having achieved distinction in their respective fields of endeavor within the industry."

Somehow the Academy has managed to find slightly more than 3,000 persons who fit that category.

There are 339 Academy members in the acting category, by far the largest grouping. Fully one-third would not be recognized by even close observers of the film scene, including this one. These are a few of the names: Edit Ansoeld, Parley Baer, Majel Barrett, Argentina Brunetti, Steve Ihnat, Riza Royce, Than Wyenn, Will Kuluva, Svi Lamont.

With all due respect to my good friends the film publicists, I wonder what achievements they have made to warrant Academy voting. They are astute observers of the film situation, but they are also employed to promote films and performers for Academy awards. A conflict of interest?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In letters from Rep. Chalmers Wylie, the FCC and Multi-Channel Cable Co., the holders of the cable TV franchise for Circleville (which council just extended for another year). I have picked up the following information.

On September 13, 1966, Multi-Channel filed a petition with the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to provide Circleville with a twelve TV channel service, instead of just the four Columbus channels that we now receive. Thus, local residents, if they desired to hook onto the cable set-up, would have a variety of programming that is available without cable, only in such large metropolitan areas such as New York and Los Angeles.

It would require too much space to reprint all the gobbledegook from the aforementioned letters, so mostly, it condenses down to the fact, that due to new rulings by the FCC, a CATV company must apply for rights of retransmission from stations outside the thirty-five mile radius which is the designated local area of reception according to the FCC. These stations cannot give retransmission rights, according to Multi-Channel Cable Co., simply because copyright restrictions bar these TV stations from giving such permission.

As an example, Chillicothe, Greenfield and Washington C.H. are outside the thirty-five mile prime market radius and therefore there was no problem for the cable TV franchises in these cities.

Congressional hearings on CATV are now set to start June 9th.

I would urge all interested persons to drop a card or letter asking that immediate and final action be taken on CATV by Congress and the FCC. Address these to: Chalmers P. Wylie, 1131 Longworth, House Office Building, Washington D.C. 20515

NEW YORK (AP) — Investment managers of the nation's pension plans are confronted with a continuing question: What is a prudent man?

It is no idle speculation, but a pragmatic question on how to invest these huge pension funds, estimated in excess of $100 billion, for the maximum return with the minimum risk.

The prudent man theory or how would a reasonable man act, is the guiding rule for pension investments—since these funds represent economic security for millions of Americans in their older age.

Ten years ago when inflation was not the problem it is today most pension funds were invested in conservative fixed income securities, usually government obligations.

"That was prudent a decade ago," says a New York banker. "But is it prudent today? Obviously not, with this inflationary trend."

Inflation, increased benefits and widespread demand for performance have forced pension

plans to seek a greater return on their investments, thus the swing to common stocks and convertible bonds. Today pension plans are the largest group of stockholders with a combined holdings of $50 billion.

Government figures show that pension plans are buying more, trading more and apparently enjoying it more, as their assets have increased by 20 per cent during the last three years.

With all this activity are pension plans taking unnecessary risks?

"Not at all," says Paul Howell, a national pension consultant. "Pensions are uniquely suited for common stock investment because they are true long-term holders of equities they can ride out the storms and stresses of the market and they receive preferred tax treatment."

"You have to take prudent risks to do right by your people," says Frank Cummings, a top aide to Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who recently introduced a bill to regulate pensions, mainly as they relate to meeting payments to individual workers.

"We don't see any need for investment regulation, yet," Cummings added.

Recently eyebrows were raised in financial circles when pension funds were channeled into volatile, glamor companies that operate gambling casinos.

"I wouldn't touch them they're not my cup of tea," says the investment manager of a $100-million, growth oriented pension plan. "But a slot machine is a great source of income—if you own it," he added.

Some pension plans are taking what they consider prudent risks by investing in growth oriented issues rather than the blue chips. Bankers Trust of New York set up a special fund for pensions seeking price appreciation.

"What is a risk. It's all a matter of degree. Fifteen years ago Xerox was considered a risk and look at it today," says a Bankers spokesman.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the most unusual letters I have ever received from my readers came from a physician who is in the active practice of medicine in a large city in Ohio.

It reads: "Dear Doctor Coleman: I follow your articles regularly and like them particularly because they do not instill fear in readers. I find that my own patients seem to understand your explanation of the nature of illness and, therefore, follow my directions with greater regularity. The fact that you do not describe symptoms avoids instilling fears in patients who are already terrified in many instances . . . you state at the end of your columns that 'all the hopeful advances in medicine are known to doctors everywhere.' From this, my patients glean that 'special' knowledge of any disease is not the private property of a few. This is important to me in maintaining the faithful relationship that we physicians try so hard to establish with our patients."

"Now, Doctor Coleman, could you do physicians a favor by telling your readers some of the problems that doctors have trying to squeeze into limited time the examination and treatment of diseases, the answering of telephones, and some of the burdens placed on them by patients who do not consider our own right and need for physical and emotional rest?"

Let me thank this physician for taking time out of a busy schedule to write to me and to offer understanding for the objectives in the columns. I do try to emphasize hope and, especially, aim at solidifying the valuable relationship between doctors and their patients.

In a society where 25 or 40 hours of weekly work is considered usual, it undoubtedly must come as a surprise to know that doctors probably spend twice that amount of time in their offices, in the hospitals, in clinics and answering the bombarding telephone calls. It is understandable that patients are anxious about their illness and it is this anxiety that induces them to telephone the doctor at home, at dinner, in what should be restful hours and even to disturb his sleep in the middle of the night. Most patients are remarkably understanding and avoid interrupting those few leisure, restful moments, but some

When George Romney, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, went before a building and construction trades conference and attacked the restrictive practices of the unions, he was roundly booed. The building trades, satisfied with the Supreme Court 5-4 decision in the so-called Philadelphia Door case which has justified boycotts aimed against the installation of prefabricated doors at construction sites, just don't want to see money-saving automobile assembly line techniques applied to the housing industry. But Romney is a stubborn fellow. If his "Operation Breakthrough" program for pooling the housing needs of the cities into a single "mass market" doesn't get anywhere, we will very probably witness an explosion followed by a resignation.

The building trades unions are, of course a well-trenched bunch. And President Nixon who has been wooing labor, isn't anxious to tangle with an important segment of the AFL-CIO especially when he is getting support for his foreign policy and his ABM program from AFL-CIO President George Meany. But George Romney has things going for him in Congress, where the anger over restrictive union practices has been mounting.

Romney as he looks at Capitol Hill, must be pinching himself as he contemplates some of his newest supporters. For the union front that is forming to break down restrictionism in the building trades cuts across the whole ideological spectrum. Last year Senator Philo A. Hart of Michigan a liberal Democrat whose daughter was one of the sparkplugs of the McCarthy for President movement, introduced an amendment to a housing act which would require any construction financed by the government to make use of the new labor-saving technologies. Hart comes from a labor state, but it is one that understands mass production techniques, and Michigan workers would probably profit greatly if their employers were able to enter the prefabricated housing field.

The movement started by Senator Hart has leaped right across the legislative aisles. George Romney once refused to endorse Senator Barry Goldwater for President but Goldwater has just come to Romney's aid by offering a bill which would make any boycott of prefabricated materials in the construction industry an unfair labor practice under Section Eight of the National Labor Relations Act. As Goldwater puts it, his bill is "intended to release the industry from irrational rules which limit innovation and spiral costs to the detriment of national policies which should override special interests". George Romney couldn't ask for anything more.

Working on their own, two other conservative Republican Senators have also offered bills to outlaw restrictive boycotts in the building field. One bill was introduced by South Carolina's Strom Thurmond in the last session of Congress. The other bill has recently been thrown into the hopper by Ed Gurney of Florida. The matter is rendered all the more piquant when one considers that Romney, if he had persisted in his campaign to become the Republican Presidential nominee, wouldn't have been caught dead asking political aid from Goldwater, Thurmond or Gurney. He would have preferred help from Democratic Senator Hart.

If the move to legitimize the use of prefabricated materials in housing construction can get such bipartisan support in the Senate, Romney's plan for building between 250,000 to 350,000 housing units a year stands the glimmering of a chance. Oddly, the more conservative the country grows, the better the Romney prospects will be. The construction unions won't give way with any grace to the use of prefabricated materials at building sites and their restrictive practices remain at their worst where mayors are most liberal. On the other hand, a report from the National Federation of Independent Business tells us that the Mayor Daley government in Chicago, which is hated by the liberals, has been busy working out an arrangement with local unions to build modular four-bedroom homes with fully equipped kitchens for some $18,000 each, to be sold at $350 down.

George Romney and Dick Daley form another unlikely axis, but there it is.

Academy Overhaul

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar, Hollywood's favorite whipping boy, is taking it again. This time it's the directors who are up in arms over an alleged slight to their profession.

The Motion Picture Academy made a 56-minute capsule of last month's awards affair for televising in foreign countries. Many of the awards in the two-hour show had to be eliminated and Carol Reed, named best director for "Oliver!", landed on the cutting-room floor.

The Directors Guild of America was incensed, even though Britisher Reed was not a member. Academy President Gregory Peck replied that the capsule version had been an experiment and the director award would be included next year.

That didn't satisfy the directors. They insisted on a public apology. The Academy's answer awaits the return of Peck from Europe.

Among the directors who protested individually was George Sidney. "It won't happen again," he said.

Peck has appointed a committee to look into membership, particularly as it affects the voting for the Oscars. A study of the Academy's membership list indicates that an overhaul is overdue.

There are 339 Academy members in the acting category, by far the largest grouping. Fully one-third would not be recognized by even close observers of the film scene, including this one. These are a few of the names: Edith Angold, Parley Baer, Majel Barrett, Argentina Brunetti, Steve Ihnat, Riza Royce, Than Wyenn, Will Kuluva, Syl Lamont.

With all due respect to my good friends the film publicists, I wonder what achievements they have made to warrant Academy voting. They are astute observers of the film situation, but they are also employed to promote films and performers for Academy awards. A conflict of interest?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In letters from Rep. Chalmers Wylie, the FCC and Multi-Channel Cable Co., the holders of the cable TV franchise for Circleville (which council just extended for another year). I have picked up the following information.

On September 13, 1966, Multi-Channel filed a petition with the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to provide Circleville with a twelve TV channel service, instead of just the four Columbus channels that we now receive. Thus, local residents, if they desired to hook onto the cable set-up, would have a variety of programming that is available without cable, only in such large metropolitan areas such as New York and Los Angeles.

It would require too much space to reprint all the gobbledegook from the aforementioned letters, so mostly, it condenses down to the fact, that due to new rulings by the FCC, a CATV company must apply for rights of retransmission from stations outside the thirty-five mile radius which is the designated local area of reception according to the FCC. These stations cannot give retransmission rights, according to Multi-Channel Cable Co., simply because copyright restrictions bar these TV stations from giving such permission.

As an example, Chillicothe, Greenfield and Washington C.H. are outside the thirty-five mile prime market radius and therefore there was no problem for the cable TV franchises in these cities.

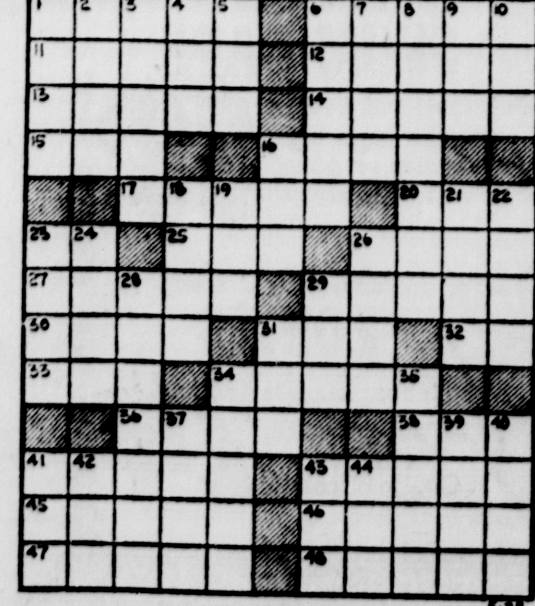

Congressional hearings on CATV are now set to start June 9th.

I would urge all interested persons to drop a card or letter asking that immediate and final action be taken on CATV by Congress and the FCC. Address these to: Chalmers P. Wylie, 1131 Longworth, House Office Building, Washington D.C. 20515

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Joint Senate-House Committee on Public Assistance has agreed to study a proposal to provide day care center care for children of welfare mothers.

The 12-member study committee will report back to the next General Assembly with proposed solutions to the state's growing welfare problems.

At its second meeting Monday, the committee reviewed two reports on public assistance prepared last November by the Legislative Service Commission for another study committee.

The day care center proposal was referred to the committee by the Senate Education, Health and Welfare Committee two weeks ago. It was considering a bill to provide state subsidies to day care centers for taking care of the children of welfare mothers while they worked or received job training.

It referred the "subject matter" to the study committee after the State Welfare Department voiced objections because it wanted "to keep the idea alive."

Life Found On Island In Antarctic

PASADENA Calif. (AP) — Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory have found tiny living things on an Antarctic island they think is much like the polar regions of Mars.

Microbiologist Roy E. Cameron said Monday the minute forms of life started to grow in lava rubble a year after volcanic blasts rocked Deception Island in December 1967. He and Dr. Robert Benoit of Virginia Polytechnic Institute lived on the island six weeks, leaving last February before a new eruption.

The 8-by-10-mile island is 1,000 miles below the southern tip of South America just off the Antarctic Peninsula.

"Marine algae were found within the three main craters on the island. Most of the samples were gathered near fumaroles (steam vents) where temperatures of 170 to 230 degrees Fahrenheit were registered," a report by the two scientists said. The samples also contained bacteria.

There was no life visible on the island's volcanic slopes.

A by-product of the Antarctic volcano activity, Cameron and Benoit said, was penguins with blistered feet.

Rocky Goes South Again For Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York left today on the second leg of a fact-finding tour of Latin America for President Nixon.

Before leaving, Rockefeller met with Nixon at the White House and afterward he expressed regret that political problems forced cancellation of his scheduled visit to Peru this week.

"These problems are the result of a breakdown in communications just when communications are most needed," Rockefeller told a news conference at the White House.

Peru, reacting angrily to a suspension of military sales by the United States, said a Rockefeller visit would not be welcome.

Rockefeller, who visited Mexico and Central America in the first of his series of trips earlier this month, flew to Colombia today, the first stop of a five-country swing. Also on his schedule are Ecuador, Bolivia, Trinidad-Tobago and Venezuela.

At the White House news briefing, Rockefeller said he talked with the President about the growing interdependence among Western Hemisphere nations in such areas as trade, economics, technology and social development.

"The President feels it is terribly important we come to know and understand one another so we can take maximum advantage of our interdependence," Rockefeller said.

The one who loses the most weight in 30 days has to treat the other one to a steak dinner in the best restaurant in town. (Just the two of them.) I trust my wife, but I don't like the idea of her going out to dinner with another man. He's married too, but I understand his wife is all for it as she'll do anything to get him to lose weight.

Should I go along with this "contest" or not?

DEAR ABBY: Recently, I overheard my teen-age son telling a friend that the two teen-age daughters of a good friend of mine were having sexual relations with the two sons of a woman who is a mutual friend of both the mother of the girls and myself.

When I asked my son how he came by this information, he said the two boys had been bragging about it at school. My son asked me not to tell anyone but I have not, as yet agreed. I told him I would have to think about it.

Abby I have never believed in interfering in the lives of my friends but I wonder if I would be a true friend to the two mothers if I just keep quiet. By speaking out, I could either be instrumental in helping all concerned avoid a tragedy, or I could lose two friends.

Consequently, I have decided to ask your advice and then follow it. Of course, I do not know that the boys' boasts are even true, but I do know that the boys and girls have been dating.

CONCERNED PARENT
DEAR CONCERNED: Now would be a good time to tell your son that a man of character NEVER—but NEVER repeats ugly rumors. And if I were you, I'd remain silent.

DEAR ABBY: Now that the summer season is soon upon us how about some help from you for us poor souls who have summer cottages?

We've had our cottage 10 years and each summer we are more popular than the summer before. Friends and relatives come in droves to enjoy themselves in the sun over our food and drink. They stay anywhere from a week-end to a full week. Of course, they always come empty-handed.

We have even written notes in advance saying "We are sorry but we can't have you this year,"—but they come anyway. Why are some folks so thick? We bought this place to get away from these people.

We don't want to seem cranky, but we'd like to entertain the guests we really WANT, without all these others "surprising" us. We're tired of running a free hotel and are thinking of selling. Can you help us?

FED UP IN PITTSBURGH
DEAR FED UP: If you've actually written to say you can't have them—and they come anyway—your only salvation is to develop a thicker hide than they have. Greet the unwelcome ones at the door with, "You may stay for a few hours but when the sun disappears, please do likewise."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 68700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Before leaving, Rockefeller met with Nixon at the White House and afterward he expressed regret that political problems forced cancellation of his scheduled visit to Peru this week.

"These problems are the result of a breakdown in communications just when communications are most needed," Rockefeller told a news conference at the White House.

Peru, reacting angrily to a suspension of military sales by the United States, said a Rockefeller visit would not be welcome.

Rockefeller, who visited Mexico and Central America in the first of his series of trips earlier this month, flew to Colombia today, the first stop of a five-country swing. Also on his schedule are Ecuador, Bolivia, Trinidad-Tobago and Venezuela.

At the White House news briefing, Rockefeller said he talked with the President about the growing interdependence among Western Hemisphere nations in such areas as trade, economics, technology and social development.

"The President feels it is terribly important we come to know and understand one another so we can take maximum advantage of our interdependence," Rockefeller said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Joint Senate-House Committee on Public Assistance has agreed to study a proposal to provide day care center care for children of welfare mothers.

The 12-member study committee will report back to the next General Assembly with proposed solutions to the state's growing welfare problems.

At its second meeting Monday, the committee reviewed two reports on public assistance prepared last November by the Legislative Service Commission for another study committee.

The day care center proposal was referred to the committee by the Senate Education, health and Welfare Committee two weeks ago. It was considering a bill to provide state subsidies to day care centers for taking care of the children of welfare mothers while they worked or received job training.

It referred the "subject matter" to the study committee after the State Welfare Department voiced objections because it wanted "to keep the idea alive."

Wet Jet Flies Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Shiga, Japan Airlines' $8.5 million jet that plunged into San Francisco Bay last Nov. 22, is back in the skies daily between Tokyo and Honolulu.

The plane, whose 107 passengers escaped unhurt when it landed in six feet of water south of the San Francisco airport, underwent a $4 million repair job at the United Airlines maintenance hangar here.

After a successful test flight April 11 from San Francisco to Honolulu, the plane went back into regular service with a new pilot, an airline spokesman said Tuesday.

Capt. Kohei Asoh, who brought the DC8 down in fog

about three miles from the airport runway, has been assigned to ground operations in Tokyo as a routine retraining measure, the spokesman said.

A federal investigation of the crash landing is under way. No results have been announced.

If you're giving him a watch for graduation make sure it doesn't tick

ACCUTRON CALENDAR "AP" 14K gold filled, water resistant. Gilt applied numerals on a silver background dial. $175.00

Bulova left out of Accutron the parts that make a watch run fast or slow.

The Accutron timepiece has no balance wheel, no mainspring, no hairspring. (Therefore no tick.) Instead it has a tiny, electronically-powered tuning fork. (That's what does the humming.)

The tuning fork splits a second into 360 equal parts. The best a ticking watch can do is divide a second into 5 or 10 parts.

Accutron time is so nearly perfect that Bulova guarantees monthly accuracy to within 60 seconds.

It's a particularly good gift for the graduate who has everything except the right time of day.

Wet Jet Flies Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Shiga, Japan Airlines' $8.5 million jet that plunged into San Francisco Bay last Nov. 22, is back in the skies daily between Tokyo and Honolulu.

The plane, whose 107 passengers escaped unharm when it landed in six feet of water south of the San Francisco airport, underwent a $4 million repair job at the United Airlines maintenance hangar here.

After a successful test flight April 11 from San Francisco to Honolulu, the plane went back into regular service with a new pilot, an airline spokesman said Tuesday.

Capt. Kohei Asoh, who brought the DC8 down in fog

about three miles from the airport runway, has been assigned to ground operations in Tokyo as a routine retraining measure, the spokesman said.

A federal investigation of the crash landing is under way. No results have been announced.

Bulova left out of Accutron the parts that make a watch run fast or slow.

The Accutron timepiece has no balance wheel, no mainspring, no hairspring. (Therefore no tick.) Instead it has a tiny, electronically-powered tuning fork. (That's what does the humming.)

The tuning fork splits a second into 360 equal parts. The best a ticking watch can do is divide a second into 5 or 10 parts.

Accutron time is so nearly perfect that Bulova guarantees monthly accuracy to within 60 seconds.

Vorster Papers Over Split In Ruling Nationalist Party

By KENNETH L. WHITING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster has papered over cracks in the ruling Nationalist party and blocked the threat of a splinter political movement.

Two dissident Nationalist members of Parliament agreed to toe the party line in what Vorster termed a "reconciliation." He said differences were dissolved unanimously at a caucus in Cape Town.

"All members of the caucus are... convinced that South Africa can only be governed and steered to its destiny through the policy and principles of the National party," he added.

Nationalists have been in power 21 years and right-wing discontent has been smoldering. Plans were announced in April for a new "purified" Afrikaner political organization which would challenge Vorster for the allegiance of conservative Afrikaners.

The right-wingers fed on the fears of some conservatives that Vorster's policies would dilute Afrikaner nationalism and lead eventually to the end of white supremacy.

Afrikaners are the descendants of Dutch-origin Boer pioneers who adhered to a stern

Calvinist faith, sowed the seeds of race segregation and viewed outsiders with suspicion. Conservatives think Vorster is leading South Africa away from these principles.

A key conservative figure has been Dr. Albert Hertzog, who was dropped from Vorster's Cabinet last year. Hertzog and another member of parliament,

Louis Stofberg, are now back in the party mainstream, Vorster announced.

The prime minister said Hertzog "rejects the people who pose as Nationalists and try to shield behind him, while they are in fact engaged in plans for the formation of a new party and are undermining the National party...."

Some observers believe deep-seated differences will inevitably reassert themselves.

Leading conservative spokesmen now are Barry Botha, editor of Veg (Fight) magazine

who last month announced plans for a new party, and S.E.D. Brown, editor of the monthly pamphlet South African Observer. In his May issue, Brown spoke of a growing credibility gap between Vorster and traditional Afrikaners. "The gap between Mr. Vorster and his people is widening, not diminishing," he said.

Apollo Crew Back At Work After Break

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Less than two hours after they got home it was back to work for the Apollo 10 astronauts, helping the space agency prepare for the moon-landing mission in July.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan spent only a long lunch hour with their families Tuesday. Then all three reported for extensive medical examinations by National Aeronautics and Space Administration physicians.

The medical examinations were the first phase of an 11-day debriefing which will provide a detailed account of what they saw, what happened and how they stood up physically on their round trip to the moon.

Today's program called for a technical debriefing with Donald K. Slayton, chief of the astronaut office. Further sessions, eight hours daily, are scheduled until June 6.

The space trio will pour out information while tape recorders take in every word and save it for later study by experts.

Space officials regard the data and observations of the Apollo 10 crew as vital to the success of the moon-landing attempt by Apollo 11 spacemen.

The Apollo 10 crew arrived looking rested and eager to start helping to tutor the Apollo 11 astronauts, even though they had had only six hours sleep since returning from space Monday.

Father, Son Enlist In Navy Together

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Willard Robins a Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean war, took his son, Steven Robins, 17, downtown to enlist in the Navy.

In the process of passing tests and making other arrangements, the youth decided he would rather be a civilian.

His father decided the Navy still looks good.

So Willard Robins, 44, re-enlisted. He received a chief petty officer grade and after boot camp will join a mobile construction battalion.

By KENNETH L. WHITING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster has papered over cracks in the ruling Nationalist party and blocked the threat of a splinter political movement.

Two dissident Nationalist members of Parliament agreed to toe the party line in what Vorster termed a "reconciliation." He said differences were dissolved unanimously at a caucus in Cape Town.

"All members of the caucus are... convinced that South Africa can only be governed and steered to its destiny through the policy and principles of the National party," he added.

Nationalists have been in power 21 years and right-wing discontent has been smoldering. Plans were announced in April for a new "purified" Afrikaner political organization which would challenge Vorster for the allegiance of conservative Afrikaners.

The right-wingers fed on the fears of some conservatives that Vorster's policies would dilute Afrikaner nationalism and lead eventually to the end of white supremacy.

Afrikaners are the descendants of Dutch-origins Boer pioneers who adhered to a stern

Calvinist faith, sowed the seeds of race segregation and viewed outsiders with suspicion. Conservatives think Vorster is leading South Africa away from these principles.

A key conservative figure has been Dr. Albert Hertzog, who was dropped from Vorster's Cabinet last year. Hertzog and another member of parliament,

Louis Stofberg, are now back in the party mainstream, Vorster announced.

The prime minister said Hertzog "rejects the people who pose as Nationalists and try to shield behind him, while they are in fact engaged in plans for the formation of a new party and are undermining the National party..."

The Nationalist party newspaper in Johannesburg, Die Transvaler, praised Vorster for achieving a "political miracle." Some observers believe deep-seated differences will inevitably reassert themselves.

Leading conservative spokesmen now are Barry Botha, editor of Veg (Fight) magazine

who last month announced plans for a new party, and S.E.D. Brown, editor of the monthly pamphlet South African Observer. In his May issue, Brown spoke of a growing credibility gap between Vorster and traditional Afrikaners. "The gap between Mr. Vorster and his people is widening, not diminishing," he said.

Apollo Crew Back At Work After Break

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Less than two hours after they got home it was back to work for the Apollo 10 astronauts, helping the space agency prepare for the moon-landing mission in July.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan spent only a long lunch hour with their families Tuesday. Then all three reported for extensive medical examinations by National Aeronautics and Space Administration physicians.

The medical examinations were the first phase of an 11-day debriefing which will provide a detailed account of what they saw, what happened and how they stood up physically on their round trip to the moon.

Today's program called for a technical debriefing with Donald K. Slayton, chief of the astronaut office. Further sessions, eight hours daily, are scheduled until June 6.

The space trio will pour out information while tape recorders take in every word and save it for later study by experts.

Space officials regard the data and observations of the Apollo 10 crew as vital to the success of the moon-landing attempt by Apollo 11 spacemen.

The Apollo 10 crew arrived looking rested and eager to start helping to tutor the Apollo 11 astronauts, even though they had had only six hours sleep since returning from space Monday.

Father, Son Enlist In Navy Together

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Willard Robins a Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean war, took his son, Steven Robins, 17, downtown to enlist in the Navy.

In the process of passing tests and making other arrangements, the youth decided he would rather be a civilian.

His father decided the Navy still looks good.

So Willard Robins, 44, re-enlisted. He received a chief petty officer grade and after boot camp will join a mobile construction battalion.

Test Tube Meat Still Fresh After 5 Years 'Under Glass'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University has a test tube filled with fresh, juicy meat that has been preserved for five years without a preservative.

The meat is a product of research being conducted by Dr. Herbert W. Ockerman, associate professor of animal science in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. He has directed the project since it began in 1962.

OSU officials said the program has made the department one of the leading centers for meat research in this area.

Dr. Ockerman explained that the aim of the research is not to keep meat fresh indefinitely. It is to provide a supply of meat samples which are free of contamination to test selectively the effects of micro-organisms on meat.

The program grew out of a seminar in 1962 when a student asked what happened to the meat from an animal bred and raised in sterile conditions.

White mice were first used with all experiments under sterile conditions. The next step was working with beef cattle, but it was not necessary to rear the cattle under sterile conditions.

Muscle tissue from a healthy animal is usually sterile, so Dr. Ockerman and his team devised a way to remove the muscle without contamination.

The animal was slaughtered but the hide left covering the loin area. Surgical methods were used to remove the muscle. From an isolator which held sterilized equipment the meat was packed in a sterile test tube with nitrogen — an inert gas — replacing the air in the tube to keep out bacteria.

The only difference between the five-year-old meat in the test tube and freshly slaughtered beef — apart from being germ free — is the fact that tyrosine, an amino acid has crystallized out of the meat. This does not affect its freshness.

Dr. Ockerman said his team now is trying to improve its techniques and make them more practical for larger amounts of meat. But the research still involves only the test tube program — and processing of meat for human consumption is not the principal objective of the project.

U.S., Britain Shun CENTO

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The United States and Britain sought today to stay clear of new involvement in local disputes of the Central Treaty Organization, despite pressure from Cento's regional partners. A communique, issued at the end of the alliance's annual council session, said Secretary of State William P. Rogers and ministers of Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran reviewed international developments in a "broad exchange of views marked by cordiality and understanding."

The attendance of Rogers who has been on an Asian swing was seen as a gesture by the Nixon administration to stand by the alliance and continue to give it U.S. support.

CENTO was conceived by the late John Foster Dulles as part of a chain of alliances designed to contain the Soviet Union. The United States did not join, although it is a member of the alliance's economic and military committees and its scientific council and is represented at the council meetings by observers.

In recent years, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan have all developed closer relations with Moscow and CENTO has concentrated more on economic development.

Boy, 6, Walks Back To Home 13 Miles Away

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 6-year-old boy became impatient waiting for his parents after a checkup at Children's Hospital Monday and walked home—13 1/2 miles away in suburban Mount Healthy.

"I know it's incredible, but I believe him," said Ronald Herrmann, father of Gregory.

Until a neighbor reached the Herrmann's at the hospital, Gregory was the object of a search by police and hospital personnel for 4 1/2 hours.

Gregory had been checked for asthma and placed in a playroom while three other children underwent examinations.

The lad said he felt "fine" after the jaunt, although his feet were swollen and he commented he would never attempt such an adventure again.

Boy, 6, Walks Back To Home 13 Miles Away

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 6-year-old boy became impatient waiting for his parents after a checkup at Children's Hospital Monday and walked home—13 1-2 miles away in suburban Mount Healthy.

"I know it's incredible, but I believe him," said Ronald Herrmann, father of Gregory.

Until a neighbor reached the Herrmann's at the hospital, Gregory was the object of a search by police and hospital personnel for 4 1-2 hours.

Gregory had been checked for asthma and placed in a playroom while three other children underwent examinations.

The lad said he felt "fine" after the jaunt, although his feet were swollen and he commented he would never attempt such an adventure again.

Summerlike warmth fanned through most interior sections of the country today following a day of record Maytime heat in parts of the Rockies and Plains. Cool, more seasonable weather was confined to the Pacific Northwest and the Northeast.

Temperatures remained in the 70s and low 80s overnight in the northern Plains after highs in the 90s and occasional 100s Tuesday. The mercury bounced at 105 at both Pierre and Philir, S.D. A reading of 91 at Casper, Wyo., was the hottest ever there during May.

Shower activity diminished during the night in the South-east and along the Gulf Coast where locally severe thunderstorms unleashed some heavy rains, high wind and scattered hail Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Three persons were killed near the Texas community of Anahuac, 25 miles east of Houston, as a tornado spun out of a thunderstorm and destroyed their home.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour battered the Tampa-St. Petersburg area along Florida's Gulf Coast Tuesday evening. Nearly 2 inches of rain soaked Tampa in one hour. The storm also pelted the area with hail.

Scattered thunder showers dampened portions of the Pacific Northwest and the northern Rockies.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 37 at Redmond, Ore., to 87 at Needles, Calif.

Gun Found In Cincinnati Slaying Case

CINCINNATI (AP)—A .24-caliber revolver used in the slaying of Dr. Jane Shutt, a local psychiatrist, was found by police hidden in her home shortly after her adopted daughter was charged with first degree murder, the Cincinnati Enquirer said it learned Tuesday night.

Citing information from "reliable sources," the newspaper said in its editions this morning the pistol belonged to the slain woman.

Her adopted daughter, Barbara, 23, was charged Monday after being given a lie detector test and being questioned by police.

The Enquirer said it learned she was taken to the fashionable Shutt home in the Clifton section shortly after she was charged and the pistol was found.

Police earlier searched the house for the weapon after Dr. Shutt was slain Sunday morning.

The newspaper said it had not learned exactly where the pistol was located, only that it had been found in the house.

Police, however, declined to make public any developments in the investigation of the murder.

Check Gave Lady Bird's Trip Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tax-exempt Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation contributed $3,000 in 1966 to promote news coverage of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's trip to Big Bend National Park, it was reported Tuesday.

The Washington Post quoted Mary Lasker admitting the foundation check "was for promotion of Mrs. Johnson." She explained: "I wanted her to take more people—more reporters—get a bigger play in the national press."

Mrs. Lasker said the check, listed by the foundation under "Civic and Miscellaneous Contributions," was given to Liz Carpenter, the former First Lady's press secretary.

"Liz said it would cost a lot of money to get the proper exposure," Mary Lasker told the Post. "I said, how much? She said $3,000 and I gave it to her."

The check had nothing to do with Mrs. Lasker's involvement in and support of Mrs. Johnson's beautification program, the Post reported. Contributions to that program are filed separately and totaled $95,917.60 during that calendar year.

When first asked about the check, the Post reporter, Mrs. Carpenter said she could not remember it. Upon checking, she confirmed the check had been made out to her only as "travel coordinator for the White House."

Both women said the money was for "press hospitality."

Ray Plans To Appeal Trial Denial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—James Earl Ray was returned to his maximum-security prison cell after losing a bid for a new trial in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"This hearing was only the beginning," said Richard J. Ryan of Memphis, one of Ray's three new lawyers. Ryan said he will take the case to the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals.

Judge Arthur C. Faquin Jr. of Criminal Court in Memphis held Monday that Ray waived any right of appeal when he entered a guilty plea March 10 in the shooting of King.

"It is the opinion of this court that the guilty plea entered was properly and knowingly, intelligently and voluntarily entered," Faquin said in a written order. "Judge Battle had ample evidence in finding that the defendant was fully advised and had waived, intelligently and understandingly, his rights to a motion for a new trial."

Judge W. Preston Battle died three weeks after accepting Ray's plea of guilty in exchange for a 99-year prison sentence.

Ray, 41, sought a new trial on grounds he was coerced by his former lawyers into pleading guilty. He charged that his old lawyers were more interested in writing and selling stories about the death of King than in seeing he received a fair trial.

OASA Splits With OEA Over Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Teachers and school administrators want mostly the same things, but don't always agree on how to go about getting them.

That's why the Ohio Association of School Administrators (OASA) wants to split from the Ohio Education Association (OEA), according to an OASA official.

"There were times when our goals of the moment were not the same as the OEA's," OASA President Willard Fox said Tuesday.

Fox, an education professor at Bowling Green State University, said major areas of conflict were negotiations and legislation.

"As a part of the OEA, we had to follow their legislative programs and platforms even if we didn't agree with them," Fox said.

The OEA has 84,000 members; the OASA has 1,100.

The OASA executive committee decided officially last week to withdraw from the OEA. Fox said the OEA was notified of the decision but has not replied to it.

The OEA staff was on a two-day staff retreat Tuesday and unavailable for comment on the withdrawal.

FBI And Sheriff's Deputies Nab Top Fugitive At Ironton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Federal agents and Lawrence County sheriff's deputies closed in on a motel in nearby South Point Tuesday night and arrested George Edward Wells, 53, one of the FBI's ten most wanted men.

The arrest came after a long stakeout by Sheriff James H. Howell and his men following a tip that Wells was staying at the motel.

Arrested with Wells were two unidentified companions. All three were taken into custody without incident.

FBI agents from Columbus and the three prisoners left the area by car shortly after the arrests, presumably for a hearing before a U.S. Commissioner.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests in Washington.

Wells, a native of Belmont County, was wanted for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for two Ohio robberies and an assault.

He is wanted for the Oct. 2, 1967 coin robbery of Norman J. Kanderski at his home in Middleburgh Heights, a Cleveland suburb. Kanderski was pistol whipped and received a fractured skull.

His coin collection, weighing more than 30 pounds, was taken from a safe in the basement by four men.

Also charged in that robbery was George A. Westrich Jr., 31. Two other men also were later taken into custody.

Wells and Westrich also were wanted for the holdup Oct. 21, 1967 of the Tustave Julian Jewelry Store in Cleveland's suburban Brecksville. Some $40,000 worth of valuables were taken.

Westrich, three days later, was found shot to death in his car in Cleveland's suburban Independence.

Wells' criminal record goes back to at least 1937 when he was convicted of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of an Akron bar owner.

In 1938, Gov. Martin Davey granted Wells clemency 12 hours before his scheduled electrocution. Wells was paroled.

Pair Plead Not Guilty To Charges

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Two Cleveland people accused of kidnapping Anne K. Jenkins pleaded innocent in Baltimore Criminal Court Tuesday to 14 state charges.

Charges against Edward Lee Dull, 39, and Alvina Marie Spriggs, 21, include kidnapping, extortion, rape, perverted practices, assault with intent to murder, armed robbery and burglary.

Following their pleas, Judge Charles D. Harris granted a request by the pair's court-appointed attorneys for a 60-day continuance to file motions.

Miss Jenkins, 22, graduate student and social worker, was raped, beaten and repeatedly stabbed with an ice pick while held captive in a Baltimore apartment.

She was released May 13 after her father, Richard T. Jenkins of Waterloo, Iowa, paid $10,000 ransom.

The defendants also face federal extortion charges.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's entertainment shows, besides soothing the weary, have established a whole set of symbols.

Take, for instance, all safes. These are handy places for storing jewels, secret formulae and ill-gotten stacks of cash, according to television, and are found in the sitting rooms and plush offices of the very rich and-or very crooked. They are always concealed behind large oil paintings.

You may wonder why the very rich and-or very crooked take all that trouble. Tuesday night, Alexander Mundy, the Robin Hood hero of "It Takes a Thief," opened a wall safe behind an oil painting with no more trouble than opening a pop-top beer can. It usually takes the "Mission: Impossible" team longer, but then they do the simplest things in such elaborate ways.

TV symbols often combine to form a sort of shorthand so that the story can get off to a fast start.

If you see a girl in a smart sportscar, top down, driving too fast or giving fresh answers to a traffic cop, you know that here is a spoiled daughter of a rich family who is about to get into big trouble. Rich people are easily spotted anyway: The men are pompous, the women affected and they all pour drinks for themselves out of decanters, not bottles.

If you've ever wondered why apartments containing corpses never have locked front doors when the police come to investigate, there's a simple answer. It's easier to have an unlocked door and move right into the homicide investigation than to waste time getting the building superintendent with his pass-key.

Why is it that smart public and private eyes look carefully behind doors for concealed bad guys every time except when one is waiting to crack them with a pistol butt? Private eyes such as "The Outsider" usually get knocked out twice per show and suffer nothing worse than a momentary headache. Policemen are usually able to wrest the gun away from the assailant.

"CBS Reports" Tuesday night took up dissenters in the second segment of its three-part series on the rebellion of youth.

Defense Funds Criticized By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military is pouring untold billions of dollars into defense contractors' pockets for weapons that often don't work, a bipartisan group of senators and representatives said Tuesday.

"The federal government has not been adequately controlling military spending," a joint economic subcommittee concluded. "As a result, substantial unnecessary funds have been spent for the acquisition of weapons systems and other military hardware."

The subcommittee's report followed hearings last November and January into the defense procurement program that totaled $44 billion in fiscal 1968—25 per cent of the federal budget.

"The wasteful, inefficient practices uncovered in the course of the hearings raise basic questions concerning the Defense Department's management of its own affairs," the report said. "It also makes us skeptical concerning the effectiveness and care with which the defense budget is scrutinized by pertinent agencies outside of the Pentagon."

"In the past literally billions of dollars have been wasted on weapons systems that have had to be canceled because they did not work," the subcommittee said. "Other systems have performed far below contract specifications."

"The result of the absence of effective cost controls, coupled with a number of policies and practices discussed in this report, has resulted in a vast subsidy for the defense industry, particularly the larger contractors," the report said.

Meningitis Discovered

SALEM, Ind. (AP) — Two Salem grade school pupils have been stricken with highly contagious cerebrospinal meningitis and hospitalized at Louisville, Ky., according to Dr. A. R. Episcopo, Washington County health officer.

The children were Lisa Smith, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, and Tony Bane, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bane, both of Rt. 1, Scottsburg.

They last attended school Tuesday, Dr. Episcopo said. Since then, letters have been sent to parents of all second and fourth grade pupils and children who rode the same school bus as the stricken youngsters.

The letters advised parents to immediately notify a physician if any child develops cold symptoms, he said.

Benefits Of Space Technology Explained

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Even as the United States stands at the threshold of man's greatest technological feat—a moon landing—space agency officials continue to find themselves having to defend the program's existence.

Critics say the billions of dollars that are paying the route from earth to moon are more urgently needed on earth to combat a host of domestic problems.

But defenders point to a long list of material benefits from space research, including:

—A sensor that counts meteorite hits on a spacecraft is the basis of an instrument that, by measuring muscle tremors, may help to detect early signs of neurological ailments such as Parkinson's disease.

—A technique used to clarify spacecraft photos of Mars and the moon by putting TV signals through a computer is being refined to clarify medical X-rays. —Electronic sensors used to keep tabs on astronauts in space have been adapted to continuously monitor the pulse, respiration, temperature and blood pressure of heart patients.

—A switch operated simply by eye movements was developed for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and has been adapted for use in a motorized wheelchair. It enables a paraplegic to control the chair without moving his body.

—A tiny FM radio transmitter developed by NASA to radio electrocardiograms from astronauts and other subjects being tested in centrifuges is being used on infants in hospitals. If the infant stops breathing for 10 seconds, it sounds a buzzer so a nurse can rush to the child for emergency care.

—By modifying astronauts' space helmets, researchers have designed a device which, when placed over the head of a patient, measures oxygen consumption.

—A technique for spraying a solution on an astronaut's chest to hold lead wires for recording heartbeats is being used on patients in hospitals or being transported by ambulance.

In nonmedical fields, an electromagnetic hammer that smooths weld seams without weakening metal, invented for building the Saturn 5 man-to-the-moon rocket, is being tested in shipyards, airplane factories and automobile plants.

Important savings have been realized in industrial space and dollars by computer advances. They have been scaled down until thousands of circuits can be compressed into a case smaller than a quarter.

What about the future?

Just as advance warnings from hurricane-hunting weather satellites have provided time for preparations that have saved countless lives, observations from earth-resources spacecraft to be launched in 1971 could reveal potential hazards such as landslide areas and fault zones.

Manned earth-orbiting space stations planned for the 1970s will test plans for later orbiting laboratories which—funds permitting—could perform many manufacturing tasks not possible on earth.

For example, by taking advantage of weightlessness in orbit, perfectly round ball bearings could be manufactured, reducing friction and noise levels in machines on earth almost to the vanishing point.

Gas bubbles could easily be mixed with solid steel to produce a steel foam almost as light as balsa wood, yet nearly as strong as solid steel. Other materials which cannot mix on earth because gravity pulls apart radically different weighted components could be combined in space to form new metal alloys and other composite products.

Report Plot Against Canadian Leader

OTTAWA (AP) — Police Director Jean-Paul Gilbert of Montreal says there was a plot to assassinate Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau during a St. Jean Baptists Day parade in Montreal last June.

"We knew a group was definitely after the prime minister to kill him," Gilbert said. He added that police put a heavy guard around Trudeau after learning of the plot from informers.

Combat Fatigue Cases Light In Vietnam, Study Shows

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army researchers who spent two years studying American soldiers in more than 2,800 Vietnam battles and skirmishes have found very little evidence of combat fatigue.

Officials say the main reason for the absence of Vietnam "battle rattle" compared to past wars is the certainty in each U.S. soldier's mind that he will serve but one year in the war zone and then go home.

"He knows he's not going to stay out there forever," a senior Army research officer said.

Other factors, officials said, are the brevity of firefights in the Vietnam war, contrasted with prolonged combat in previous wars, and a soldier's awareness that if wounded he can be on the operating table in only 30 minutes, with a good chance to survive.

About 65 Army and Marine specialists have been in the field compiling data which, hopefully, will lead to improved methods of preventing and treating wounds.

Among other things, they reported the stimulus of combat often seems strong enough to overcome a wounded man's pain, so that he keeps going and sometimes accomplishes remarkable battle feats.

Researchers also noted soldiers in combat frequently care more for their comrades and their objectives than for themselves, something veteran Army medical authorities say is not new.

"Once the pressure is really on, you don't have time to think about yourself," said one medical colonel who served in battle in Korea and World War II.

The two-year study by what the Army calls a "wound ballistic team" ends next month. Authorities are working to reduce the information their field researchers have gathered on some 7,800 wounded men to meaningful statistics. This may take six months.

"What we are really studying is how men are wounded and how it can be prevented," a leader of the Army Research Office said.

"We're finding things we didn't previously know about the seriously wounded."

Among other discoveries, Army doctors have learned that the body reacts in shock in a different way than had been previously taken for granted, and adjustments in post-wound treatment are being made accordingly.

"We're developing really new methods of treating the seriously wounded before they go to the operating table," a doctor said.

Cuban Sugar Crop Low

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro admitted Monday night that Cuba's 1969 sugar harvest would fall far short of its goal and described it as "the agony of the country."

In a broadcast speech lasting nearly two hours, Castro blamed the disappointing harvest on equipment and personnel problems. But he said the harvest would start earlier next year and the crop should be bigger. The Communist leader is aiming for a 10-million-ton harvest in 1970.

He said with 85 per cent of the cutting completed, 4,277,482 tons of sugar have been harvested this year. At that rate, total production will fall below 5 million tons, and Castro had set a goal of 9 million tons.

"The people have been making a great effort but could do more," Castro said. "We have the example of a greater effort that of the people of Vietnam confronting hundreds of thousands of imperialist soldiers."

Cuba harvested 5.1 million tons of sugar in 1968.

Blacks Seeking Cleveland Meet

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Black Nationalists planned to return to the Cuyahoga County Courthouse today for the third day in an attempt to meet with Prosecutor John T. Corrigan.

Bishop David Hill, leader of the Black Nationalist House of Israel, said sheriff's deputies attacked a group of about 50 followers in the courthouse without provocation Tuesday. There were no arrests.

The committee members have been trying to see Corrigan since Monday. They want to discuss alleged police misconduct during last July's racial violence in the city's Glenview area. Corrigan has refused to see the committee as a whole, but said he would see them individually.

5 More Ohioans Vietnam Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Ohio Army men were among 27 recent casualties of the Vietnam war, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

They were Pfc. Patrick R. Diehl of Chagrin Falls, Pfc. Kenneth W. Kruckmeyer of Pemberville, Spec. 4 William Ward of Cleveland, Pfc. Robert F. Laubacher of Malvern and Spec. 4 James M. Davenport of Port Clinton.

Postal Reform Plan Hits Snags

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's urgent postal reform legislation is assured special delivery to Capitol Hill but its trip through Congress may be slower than a footstep mailman.

Potential opposition from bulk mailers and postal unions—the politicians' version of snow and rain and heat and gloom of night—may stay Nixon's bill from swift completion of its appointed rounds.

The mailers and the unions, who fear the loss of gains they fought for in Congress, pose the greatest opposition to the reform plan.

"The unions are going to have to be convinced that the situation under the new arrangement will be as good or better than what they now have," Rep. Morris K. Udall said.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, however, struck a hopeful note on the union opposition.

"While they haven't formally endorsed it (the reform plan), we did have very fruitful discussions," Blount said.

House Speaker John W. McCormack called the proposal to convert the Post Office Department into a government owned, self-sustaining corporation "A subject for long-range consideration."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan conceded the administration faces "a selling job on postal employees and the Congress."

Rep. Udall, D-Ariz., a high ranking member of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee and a supporter of the President's plan, commented: "I have to say in all frankness the outlook is dim this year."

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Post Office Committee, has announced his opposition to the postal corporation plan.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said to expect opposition from rank-and-file GOP officials who resent losing postal patronage.

Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski of the House Post Office Committee has his own reform plan that would retain tight Congressional control over the postal service.

Control by a nine-man, appointed board of directors to replace the present Cabinet rank postmaster general.

Settlement of union wage and benefit requests by the board rather than by Congress. Nonpolitical appointment of all officers and employees.

—Total responsibility for all financing, including new authority to borrow for capital improvements up to $10 billion.

—The recommendations of Frederick R. Kappel, who headed the recommendations of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's Commission on Postal Reform.

Stronger Health Warnings On Cigarettes Set Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong health warnings in cigarette advertising and package labeling have suffered an early reverse in preliminary House committee action.

The votes Tuesday approving only a slightly stronger health warning on packages and defeating a warning requirement in advertising prompted Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., to comment, "I'd say the tobacco industry has done its work well."

By a 15-14 vote the House Commerce Committee, meeting in closed session, approved requiring a package warning stating that the U.S. surgeon general has found that smoking cigarettes may cause lung cancer.

The present warning on packages is that "Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health." A much stronger warning, proposed by the Federal Trade Commission, is: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death resulting from cancer, coronary

The committee defeated by a substantial majority. Committee sources said, a proposed requirement for warning in radio, television and newspaper cigarette advertising. The FTC favors such warnings.

However, the committee has yet to take up the crucial provision in the smoking measure which deals with the extension of the 1965 Cigarette Labeling Act.

The 1965 act provided for the initial package warning but kept the FTC, Federal Communications Commission and other state and federal agencies from taking further action. The FCC, for instance, now says that it would like to sharply limit or ban cigarette commercials on radio and television.

Only if Congress allows the 1965 act to expire June 30 can the FTC or FCC bring their stronger measures into play.

Scholarship May Be Available If Name Is Right

By GLORIA KLEIN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

What's in a name? Possibly quite a lot — thousands of dollars — if you happen to be looking for a way to finance a college education.

Yale University, for example, recently ran an advertisement inviting people named Leavenworth to apply for a scholarship worth more than $1,000 a year. Quite a few other institutions of higher learning have scholarships that go to students with certain names. Such grants usually were created by philanthropists who had the same name and wanted to perpetuate it by means of college scholarships — and often it's hard to find just the right namesake.

Among the other scholarships granted by Yale, for example, has been one worth $1,000 to a young man who — whatever other sterling qualities he had — also happened to be named DeForest.

Rival Harvard University has offered financial aid to knowledge-hungry students whose monickers happened to be Anderson, Baxendale, Borden, Bright, Downer, Haven, Pennoyer — and just plain Murphy.

Barnard has had a soft place on its scholarship list for youngsters named Stuyvesant or Van Loon. These were set up for descendants of New York's early Dutch settlers.

If you happen to be Romanian, instead, Vassar has had special interest in bringing you to campus. Czech blood has been worth a lot more than $25 a pint at the University of Illinois. And if your forebears were Irish, the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick would help pack your bags for Goucher College.

Some other strange scholarships?

Whatever your nationality, Tufts University has offered scholarships provided your parents are fishermen. For the children of Taxi Drivers, Columbia has started the meter ticking handsomely. And if you really are the proverbial farmer's daughter, the welcome mat has been out at Carleton College.

Sons of widows have gotten help from Harvard — provided they lived "west of the Appalachians." This Ivy League school also has had a warm spot for newsboys — provided they sold their papers in Boston — as well as "band players."

The song's also been the thing at Yale, which has made funds available to help freshmen "who will develop into promising Glee Club candidates." And Old Eli also has paid special welcome to young citizens of Henry County, Ind. However, according to Lovejoy's "College Scholarship Guide," "very few qualified candidates apply."

Probably "few indigent boy and girl residents" of Lithopolis and Bloom Townships, Ohio, have applied to Albright College, either. Yet there have been thousands of dollars available to such candidates. Albright has had scholarships for Eagle Scouts, as Princeton also has.

If you've been a girl newsboy — which ain't too easy — Lake Forest, Ill., College has had assistance available. Vassar has displayed special interest in the daughters of widows. And Pembroke College has encouraged "upright" young women of the "non-smoking" variety.

Are you descended from a Union Army veteran? Was your dad a cop, but is now dead? Have you worked as a golf caddy? How about unusual interest in enameling work, lime, sewing or deafness? These can be a step up toward a college sheepskin. A school in Michigan has even defrayed the cost of an education in horseshoeing.

However, if you've worked out a way to catch a waitress' eye at lunch hour or how to make your money last till next week, maybe you should contact Worcester, Mass., Polytechnic Institute. They've offered a scholarship to someone possessing "Yankee ingenuity."

UC Trouble Over Now

CINCINNATI (AP) — A black student organization and the University of Cincinnati came to terms Tuesday in a dispute that created a tense campus situation for more than a week.

The crux of the "peace" settlement was black student approval of a university plan concerning an 18-point demand list. The students, members of the United Black Association, drew up the demands May 20.

Most of the demands centered on a larger Negro count in faculty and administration.

Dr. Walter Langsam, university president, said the plan calls for some immediate action and provisions for reaching long-range goals. He also re-emphasized the university's stand that it "would not tolerate coercive disruption."

He and other school officials and UBA leaders reached agreement after a closed conference in the administration building.

East Germany Is Recognized By Sudanese

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Sudan's three-day-old leftist regime announced that it has accorded full diplomatic recognition to Communist-run East Germany.

Sudan's Omdurman radio said the recognition was accorded by the 10-man National Revolutionary Council which seized power in a bloodless coup Sunday.

Sudan and other Arab governments broke relations with West Germany in 1965 after Bonn established relations with Israel.

East Germany Is Recognized By Sudanese

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Sudan's three-day-old leftist regime announced that it has accorded full diplomatic recognition to Communist-run East Germany.

Sudan's Omdurman radio said the recognition was accorded by the 10-man National Revolutionary Council which seized power in a bloodless coup Sunday. Sudan and other Arab governments broke relations with West Germany in 1965 after Bonn established relations with Israel.

Colombian Police Boost Security For Rocky Visit

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia's government enforced tight security measures throughout Bogota today, seeking to prevent a repetition of student protests that preceded the arrival of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Tuesday.

A ceremony today at which Rockefeller was to be awarded an honorary degree was called off after students threatened to sabotage it. A security force of 20,000 men was mobilized in the major cities.

Gen. Luis Leyva, chief of the national security police, said most of the violence Tuesday was quelled before the governor arrived in Bogota to start the second of four surveys he is making of Latin America for President Nixon.

Rockefeller made a brief speech in Spanish, saying he had come "not to give advice but to listen." Then he called on President Carlos Lleras Restrepo at the presidential residence.

Goldberg Declines Pension By Union

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice and U.N. ambassador, has declined a $25,000 a year pension offer from a former employer—the United Steelworkers Union.

Goldberg was the union's general counsel from 1948 to 1960, when he resigned to become secretary of labor. He is 60.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said to expect opposition from rank-and-file GOP officials who resent losing postal patronage.

Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski of the House Post Office Committee has his own reform plan that would retain tight Congressional control over the postal service.

President Nixon wants these changes for the Post Office, with its more than 700,000 employees, $7-billion budget a year, and annual mail load of 80 billion pieces.

Control by a nine-man, appointed board of directors to replace the present Cabinet rank postmaster general. —Settlement of union wage and benefit requests by the board rather than by Congress. Nonpolitical appointment of all officers and employees.

—Total responsibility for all financing, including new authority to borrow for capital improvements up to $10 billion.

—The recommendations of Frederick R. Kappel, who headed former President Lyndon B. Johnson's Commission on Postal Reform.

Stronger Health Warnings On Cigarettes Set Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong health warnings in cigarette advertising and package labeling have suffered an early reverse in preliminary House committee action.

The votes Tuesday approving only a slightly stronger health warning on packages and defeating a warning requirement in advertising prompted Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., to comment, "I'd say the tobacco industry has done its work well."

By a 15-14 vote the House Commerce Committee, meeting in closed session, approved requiring a package warning stating that the U.S. surgeon general has found that smoking cigarettes may cause lung cancer.

The present warning on packages is that "Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health." A much stronger warning, proposed by the Federal Trade Commission, is: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death resulting from cancer, coronary

The committee defeated by a substantial majority. Committee sources said, a proposed requirement for warning in radio, television and newspaper cigarette advertising. The FTC favors such warnings.

However, the committee has yet to take up the crucial provision in the smoking measure which deals with the extension of the 1965 Cigarette Labeling Act.

The 1965 act provided for the initial package warning but kept the FTC, Federal Communications Commission and other state and federal agencies from taking further action. The FCC, for instance, now says that it would like to sharply limit or ban cigarette commercials on radio and television.

Only if Congress allows the 1965 act to expire June 30 can the FTC or FCC bring their stronger measures into play.

Scholarship May Be Available If Name Is Right

By GLORIA KLEIN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

What's in a name? Possibly quite a lot — thousands of dollars — if you happen to be looking for a way to finance a college education.

Yale University, for example, recently ran an advertisement inviting people named Leavenworth to apply for a scholarship worth more than $1,000 a year. Quite a few other institutions of higher learning have scholarships that go to students with certain names. Such grants usually were created by philanthropists who had the same name and wanted to perpetuate it by means of college scholarships — and often it's hard to find just the right namesake.

Among the other scholarships granted by Yale, for example, has been one worth $1,000 to a young man who — whatever other sterling qualities he had — also happened to be named DeForest.

Rival Harvard University has offered financial aid to knowledge-hungry students whose monickers happened to be Anderson, Baxendale, Borden, Bright, Downer, Haven, Pennoyer — and just plain Murphy.

Barnard has had a soft place on its scholarship list for youngsters named Stuyvesant or Van Loon. These were set up for descendants of New York's early Dutch settlers.

If you happen to be Romanian, instead, Vassar has had special interest in bringing you to campus. Czech blood has been worth a lot more than $25 a pint at the University of Illinois. And if your forebears were Irish, the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick would help pack your bags for Goucher College.

Some other strange scholarships?

Whatever your nationality, Tufts University has offered scholarships provided your parents are fishermen. For the children of Taxi Drivers, Columbia has started the meter ticking handsomely. And if you really are the proverbial farmer's daughter, the welcome mat has been out at Carleton College.

Sons of widows have gotten help from Harvard — provided they lived "west of the Appalachians." This Ivy League school also has had a warm spot for newboys — provided they sold their papers in Boston — as well as "band players."

The song's also been the thing at Yale, which has made funds available to help freshmen "who will develop into promising Glee Club candidates." And Old Eli also has paid special welcome to young citizens of Henry County, Ind. However, according to Lovejoy's "College Scholarship Guide," "very few qualified candidates apply."

Probably "few indigent boy and girl residents" of Lithopolis and Bloom Townships, Ohio, have applied to Albright College, either. Yet there have been thousands of dollars available to such candidates. Albright has had scholarships for Eagle Scouts, as Princeton also has.

If you've been a girl newsboy — which ain't too easy — Lake Forest, Ill., College has had assistance available. Vassar has displayed special interest in the daughters of widows. And Pembroke College has encouraged "upright" young women of the "non-smoking" variety.

Are you descended from a Union Army veteran? Was your dad a cop, but is now dead? Have you worked as a golf caddy? How about unusual interest in enameling work, lime, sewing or deafness? These can be a step up toward a college sheepskin. A school in Michigan has even defrayed the cost of an education in horseshoeing.

If Ruby Wins Indy 500, He'll Be Off Racing Team

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — If veteran driver Lloyd Ruby wins the Indianapolis 500 Friday he'll be fired immediately, but not for the usual reasons.

"Winning the 500 would put him on easy street for life," said John Laux, manager of the Gene White racing team at the Speedway. "Lloyd has had three $100,000 years in a row now, and winning the 500 is the only thing left for him."

Laux, a long-time friend and associate of the Wichita Falls, ex., driver, said Tuesday it would be up to Ruby to decide whether he wanted to continue racing should he win the world's richest auto race.

"But so far as our team is concerned, this would be a win-lose situation," Laux said. "We'd hope to go in business with him, either in racing or some other area."

Ruby, at 41 a veteran of 23 years on the tracks, will start his Winn's Spitfire turbocharged Offy in the Memorial Day classic in 20th position in the 33-car field.

It was one of the worst qualifying efforts in his 10 years at the Speedway.

Laux and the other members of the team had expected the car to do better than the 166.428 miles per hour average it posted for four laps, or 10 miles. Ruby had hit 168-plus in practice, Laux said.

"We're still in good shape, but we'll be half a lap behind almost from the start. Our hope is that the Offy will prove more reliable than the Fords," Laux commented.

Laux and the team had the No. 4 racer completely disassembled in the garage area Tuesday. "We're going through it, checking every minute part," he said. "Maybe we'll come up with something new by race day."

Little, Player Are Favored In Tournament

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Tough little Gary Player and smooth Gene Littler ruled the favorites today for the $30,000 first prize in the rich Memphis Open Golf Tournament, with old pro Julius Boros and a number of other top names among the missing.

"Boros told me last week he'd be here," tournament director Vernon Bell said, "but he was doing some television filming on fishing and it got delayed by weather. So he called Sunday and said he wouldn't be able to make it."

But the 49-year-old PGA champ isn't the only leading player skipping this $150,000 event two weeks before the U.S. Open.

Some others include Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Masters champ George Archer and Australian Bruce Devlin, one of the most successful players on the tour in recent weeks.

All simply are taking some time off.

Australian Bruce Crampton, on the tour regularly, complained of being tired after a practice round Tuesday and asked to be excused from his commitment. Tournament officials agreed.

The field of 144 that will tee off Thursday in the first round on the tight, 6,485-yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course includes such standouts as flamboyant Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion; veteran Dan Sikes; Bert Yancey, winner of last week's Atlanta Classic; and defending champion Bob Lunn.

The course is one of the toughest the tourists play, but it's tough and demanding.

"It's not all that long," Bell said, "but actually it's a driver's course. It places a premium on the accurate tee shot. A bad shot can put you in trouble."

"There's some four-inch clover in the rough out there that you just can't get out of."

34 Low Gross In PCC League

Bud Hritz and Dean MacFadden both carded 34s to tie for low gross honors during the Mens' Golf League action at the Pickaway Country Club Tuesday.

Low net of 32 was shot by Wayne Evans (39 gross) and Brent Bell (36 gross). The winning team was team No. 9. Members of the team are Lyle Bookman, Carl Hefelfinger, Ron Kasmierczak, Wendell Christy, Bill Camp, Jerry Ayers and M. C. Estenson.

Angels Manage To Defeat Cleveland, 2-1

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
New skipper Lefty Phillips, with all modesty, will contend it was just a coincidence, but nevertheless the California Angels' ship has finally righted itself.

With Phillips at the helm for the first time since taking over for fired manager Bill Rigney earlier in the day, the listing Angels ended a 10-game losing streak with a 2-1 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night.

"We waited for the ship to right itself and it finally became time that a decision had to be made," General Manager Dick Walsh had said when he let Rigney go with a 11-28 record 12½ games out of first place in the American League's West Division.

It might only be a short successful voyage with the Angels keeling over again, but the Angels must be satisfied with even a one-game winning streak at the moment.

While the Angels sailed in winners, several others broke losing streaks—and winning skeins.

Oakland won for the first time in seven games with a 4-3 victory over Detroit, which had its three-game winning string ended, and Washington shattered its six-game losing streak and Minnesota four-game winning run with a 5-1 triumph over the Twins.

The New York Yankees, after losing three straight, beat the Chicago White Sox 5-3 and Seattle ended Baltimore's five-game winning streak with an 8-1 rout over the Orioles. Kansas City won its fourth in a row with a 5-4 decision over Boston.

One of the first things Phillips did was insert Bubba Morton into the Angels' lineup in left field and Morton quickly got them started on the right course with a second inning double. He scored on Lou Johnson's double.

After singles by loser Sam McDowell, 3-6, Larry Brown and Lee Maye tied the game for Cleveland in the fifth, California scored the clincher in the seventh.

Rick Reichardt, moved from left field to first base by Phillips, beat out a bouncer and Morton walked before Johnson looped the winning run-scoring hit to center field.

Hoyt Wilhelm, in relief of Jim McGlothlin, 4-3, blanked the Indians the last two innings and the Angels were home free.

Sal Bando gave Oakland its victory with a seventh inning homer off reliever Don McMahon, 0-3, that broke a 3-3 tie and gave Chuck Dobson, 4-4, the triumph with a four-hitter.

Barry Moore, 3-1, scattered six hits in his first complete game in 27 starts since 1967 and only the third by a Washington pitcher this season. Brant Alyea backed with a homer and a single for three runs.

Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees, who has lost three times, became the first eight-game winner in the major leagues when he slugged a two-run tie-breaking homer with two out in the eighth inning off Wilbur Wood. His single also helped the Yankees take a 3-2 lead in the seventh.

With Roy Oyler, Mike Hegan and Gerry McNertney hitting solo homers behind him, Gene Brabender, 2-3, breezed past his former Baltimore teammates with a seven-hit effort for Seattle. Tom Phoebus, driven out in seven-run fifth, lost for the first time in six decisions as the Orioles dropped only their second game in 12 outings. The hot Pilots have won 12 of 16.

Jackie Hernandez capped a rally of three unearned runs in the seventh inning with a bloop two-run single that brought Kansas City from behind. Boston had held a 4-2 lead on Reggie Smith's three-run homer.

Westfall Sweeps Twinbill From Visiting Laurelville

Westfall swept a twinbill from visiting Laurelville Tuesday, defeating the Wildcats, 12-0, in the first game and winning the nightcap, 6-0.

He was relieved by Randy Alkire, who whiffed three, walked one and allowed one hit in two innings. Rick Fast was the losing pitcher, fanning three, walking four and giving up 11 hits. Five of the hits went for extra bases.

Gene Carfrey hit a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. He scored two runs and stole three bases.

TONY Lightle hit a single and a triple in four trips. Bill Blair was two for two at the plate with a triple and a single, Jack Moore belted a single and a triple and Rick Redman smashed a homerun.

Westfall scored five runs in the first inning, three in the third, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth.

In the night cap, Bill Blair was the winning hurler. He whiffed four, walked two, hit one batter and was touched for

Mike Eveland was the losing pitcher. He whiffed four, walked three, had two wild pitches, hit one batter and allowed four hits.

All six of Westfall's runs came in the second inning. Gene Carfrey's three run homer in the second game was the big blow.

Westfall has a 19-2 overall record and is 8-1 in The Scioto Valley Conference.

Thursday they host Unioto in SVC action. The Shermans have lost one league game. Next week, the Mustangs play at Unioto Monday and host Adena Thursday.

Local Horsemen Place At Downs

Three Pickaway County drivers finished either second or third at Scioto Downs during Tuesday's racing program.

Albert Kerns Jr. reined King Storm to a second place finish in the seventh race, Emmett Ebenhack was third with Worldly Hi in the first race and Jim Arledge third with Queenie H in the ninth race.

King Storm is owned by Albert and Marilla Kerns of Stoutsville. Queenie H, a three year old bay mare, is owned by Mrs. Helen Bowling of Circleville and Worldly Hi by Paradise farms of Columbus.

Greg Bigam was the winning hurler in the first tilt. Working the first five innings, he fanned three, walked two and allowed one hit.

He was relieved by Randy Alkire, who whiffed three, walked one and allowed one hit in two innings. Rick Fast was the losing pitcher, fanning three, walking four and giving up 11 hits. Five of the hits went for extra bases.

Gene Carfrey hit a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. He scored two runs and stole three bases.

TONY Lightie hit a single and a triple in four trips, Bill Blair was two for two at the plate with a triple and a single, Jack Moore belted a single and a triple and Rick Redman smashed a homerun.

Westfall scored five runs in the first inning, three in the third, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth.

In the night cap, Bill Blair was the winning hurler. He whiffed four, walked two, hit one batter and was touched for two hits. Mike Eveland was the losing pitcher. He whiffed four, walked three, had two wild pitches, hit one batter and allowed four hits.

All six of Westfall's runs came in the second inning. Gene Carfrey's three run homer in the second game was the big blow.

Westfall has a 19-2 overall record and is 8-1 in The Scioto Valley Conference.

Thursday they host Unioto in SVC action. The Sheremans have lost one league game. Next week, the Mustangs play at Unioto Monday and host Adena Thursday.

O. J. Simpson Still Wants More Money

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O. J. Simpson has dropped a $500,000 loan demand for signing with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League in the face of a strong defense by Bills' owner Ralph Wilson Jr.

But, Wilson and Simpson, it was reported Tuesday, remained a difficult $400,000 apart after a negotiating session Monday in Detroit.

The money gap sparked a comment from Wilson that he "would consider" trading the 1968 Heisman Trophy winner.

$2.6 Billion Aid Plan Proposed By White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, after taking steps to seek bipartisan support, had a $2.6 billion foreign aid request to present to Congress today.

Nixon's program calls for a partial revamping of the U.S. overseas assistance effort, but a more far-reaching overhaul of foreign aid will await a study by a blue-ribbon review group the President plans to appoint, administration sources said.

MANACLED, James Earl Ray is led from Tennessee State Prison in Nashville for the trip to Memphis and the hearing on whether he should receive a new trial in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Escorting him is Maj. Mickey McGuire of the state police.

U.S. Tourists Are Big Spenders

VIENNA (AP) — Tourists from the United States are the biggest spenders of all foreigners visiting Austria, the Austrian Tourist Office said.

U. S. citizens on the average spend 596 Schillings ($23.80) daily, British visitors 351 Schillings ($14), Swedes 311 Schillings ($12.40), French 272 Schillings ($10.80) and West Germans only 181 Schillings ($7.20).

West Germans, on the other hand, account for the largest number of tourists.

Haystack Calhoun, a wrestler, is often billed as the 625-pound Arkansas idol.

Technical assistance and private investment in developing countries abroad were items marked for special emphasis in the new administration's first message on the controversial foreign aid issue.

The $2.28 billion in economic and $375 million in military aid in Nixon's budget is $62 million below former President Lyndon B. Johnson's aid proposal for the coming fiscal year.

But it also totals some $900 million more than what the legions of some economy minded congressmen, including Republicans, have served notice they intend to slice into the new President's program.

Nixon called in both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders Tuesday for a White House meeting on his program. Last year the lawmakers dismayed the executive branch by slashing nearly $1.2 billion from President Johnson's request.

Administration officials said Nixon has decided on only moderate changes in the Agency for International Development—AID—the organization set up by the Kennedy administration at the start of the decade to run the aid program.

The administration sources look for more changes in Nixon's next aid program next year after the special committee has completed its study.

Both money and bureaucratic reorganization are involved in the new emphasis on technical assistance to underdeveloped nations.

Nixon was expected to earmark $463 million to apply U.S. skills for foreign economic development, compared with $224.5 million under the last Johnson program. And plans are underway for a special bureau in AID to handle technical assistance.

In the private investment field, the proposal is to establish a new federal agency which would be a public corporation. The corporation, to be governed by a joint government-private board of directors, would specialize in promoting private investment in developing countries.

The corporation is expected to be self-financing through earnings from such activities as insurance fees and loan repayments.

An office within AID now performs such activities. To back up the new corporation, the Nixon program would include a special $75 million appropriation the first year.

Pro Football Enters Prime TV Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — For a "realistic price" the world of professional football entered prime time television with the announcement that the American Broadcasting Co. had agreed to view 13 regular season games for three years beginning in 1970.

The joint announcement was made Monday night by pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Boone Arledge, president of ABC sports at the commission's plush Park Avenue office.

The weekly series, set for Monday nights, will begin on the first Monday of the regular season in 1970. The broadcasts, in color, will be the first contract with a pro sports league for a regular series during prime television time. The telecasts will originate at 8:30 or 9 p.m. Eastern time.

Although the amount of money for the package was not discussed, Arledge did say that "the price was realistic. It was priced accordingly."

"Pro football is a great attraction and this association with pro football is in keeping with ABC's pioneering efforts in television sports coverage."

It was speculated that Rozelle would announce the complete television-money package after he meets with NBC and CBS officials to negotiate the remaining Sunday package. Current contracts with the two networks expire after the 1969 season.

CBS now covers the National Football League and NBC telecasts the American League games.

Trade Talk Being Heard By Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angel players appear disheartened, some sullen and none very pleased at the announcement that Bill Rigney, the only field manager the Angels have ever known, is fired.

"He was a hell of a guy to play for," said slick-fielding shortstop Jim Fregosi. "He taught me how to play the game."

Rigney, 51, was fired Tuesday by first-year general manager Dick Walsh. The announcement wasn't unexpected. Rumors started early in the season and became more virulent when the Angels ended a recent road trip with 10 straight defeats.

Named to replace Rigney was Harold "Lefty" Phillips, 50, the club's director of player personnel. No sooner had the switch been made than the changes started to come.

Phillips started Tuesday night's game with Cleveland by using one-time bonus baby Rick Reichardt at first base. It was the eighth first baseman the Angels have tried this season and a position Reichardt, normally a left fielder, has never played in four previous major league seasons.

Then club officials started talking trade. And the one on the lips of insiders reportedly had Reichardt and outfielder Roger Repoz going to Washington for Mike Epstein, Tim Cullen and Ken McMullen.

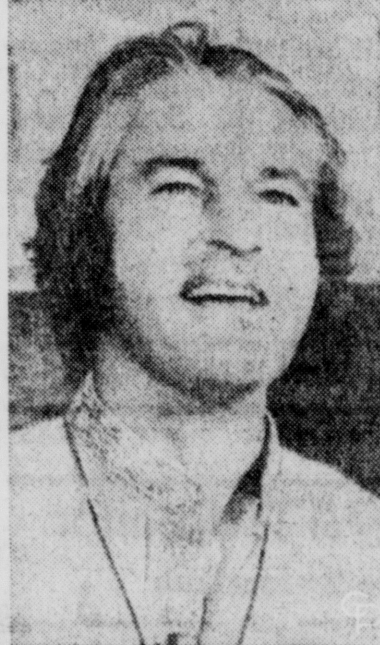

Abe Is Winner Of Feature Race At Scioto Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Abe, driven by owner James Edwards of Sunbury, Ohio claimed the national seasons record for 3-year-old trotters over a mile track in winning the featured race at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

The trotter covered the mile in 2:03 1-5, shaving two full seconds off the old record set by Pridewood at Pompano Park, Fla., last March 7.

Abe won the $1,400 conditioned trot by a length and three-quarters over King Storm and returned $4.60, $3.40 and $3.20. King Storm paid $5.40 and $6, while Dinette was worth $7.60 for show.

The 5-5 daily double combination of Miracle Roy and Charlie Cole paid 14. Handle was $180,709.

CONVICTION NULLED—In a unanimous decision that apparently weakens enforcement of federal narcotics laws, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the marijuana conviction of Dr. Timothy F. Leary (above), self-proclaimed high priest of the psychedelic drug cult and former Harvard University psychologist.

The weekly series, set for Monday nights, will begin on the first Monday of the regular season in 1970. The broadcasts, in color, will be the first contract with a pro sports league for a regular series during prime television time. The telecasts will originate at 8:30 or 9 p.m. Eastern time.

Although the amount of money for the package was not discussed, Arledge did say that "the price was realistic. It was priced accordingly."

"Pro football is a great attraction and this association with pro football is in keeping with ABC's pioneering efforts in television sports coverage."

It was speculated that Rozelle would announce the complete television-money package after he meets with NBC and CBS officials to negotiate the remaining Sunday package. Current contracts with the two networks expire after the 1969 season.

CBS now covers the National Football League and NBC telecasts the American League games.

Foundation Free-Wheelers Target Of Tax Reformers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is moving to restrict free-wheelers among foundations and wealthy individuals who wipe out income tax liability with big donations to charity.

These were highlights in the committee's first progress report on its tax reform deliberations. The repeal emphasized decisions made so far to be subject to review and that much needed. The committee goes back to work Tuesday.

The report, which got a mixed but generally favorable reception, also outlined plans to clamp down on a number of presently legal tax shelters.

Targets of proposals already drafted are the use of special farm tax provisions to build up capital gains, lowering a corporation's taxes by reorganizing it into separate but related companies, tax-free operation of businesses by churches and other exempt groups, and bond-for-stock swaps to each conglomerate mergers.

On the other side of the ledger, the committee proposed a better break for employers or employees who are hit with heavy moving expenses because of job shifts.

Foundations, under criticism in recent months because of controversial grants by some of them, would be hit from several

Akron Police Quell 2-Hour Mob Outbreak

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A motorcycleist was shot and wounded and some stores and cars were damaged by roving gangs of youths on the South-east Side late Tuesday night, police reported. There were no arrests.

The violence occurred in a racially mixed neighborhood along South Arlington Street, but police said the gangs were predominantly black.

Charles Kindig, 39, of Akron told police he was shot in the arm and the headlight of his motorcycle was shot out. He said several youths beat him when he stopped and then set his motorcycle afire. Kindig was treated at a hospital and released. Damage to his motorcycle was estimated at $1,300.

Windows were shot out at the View Lunch restaurant and at a nearby apartment, but no one was injured. The restaurant was closed and the apartment was unoccupied at the time.

Police said a shark in an unoccupied used car lot and an awning at a meat market were set afire.

Two motorists reported that their cars were damaged by thrown objects. Damage to the cars was estimated at $75 and $100.

Thirty-five policemen were assigned to the area in quelling the violence, which lasted about two hours.

Earlier Tuesday two fire bombs were thrown against wooden doors at the V&M Market on the near Southwest Side. Damage there was estimated at $400.

Gas Rates Up To County Users

Residents of Circleville, Ashville and South Bloomfield communities will pay 64 one-hundredths of a cent more per thousand cubic feet for natural gas beginning June 14, it was announced by Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc.

The adjustment reflects increases in the cost of gas from suppliers, which are passed on to customers through provision of the fuel cost clauses in the communities' contract with the gas company.

The increase will amount to about 10 cents a month for the average customer who heats his home with natural gas.

The Boston Celtics won the National Basketball Association title but they finished fourth in the Eastern Division, nine games behind Baltimore.

Troop Pullout

as vital to American or Western European security in an era of rockets and missiles.

As a starter on troop cutbacks, Mansfield proposed, the Nixon administration set a fixed date—possibly 1972—for a change in the status of Okinawa, which the Japanese want to reclaim.

"It's the most important question in Japan today and we will ignore it at our own peril," he said.

He conceded that freedom of American action on Okinawa, which has been used as a basing point for B52 attacks on Vietnam and as a port of call for U.S. nuclear submarines, must be preserved at least until after the Vietnam war is ended.

The issue will come before President Nixon in this week's visit to Washington of Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi.

Fulbright said that from personal talks with Japanese officials he believes the issue can be compromised between Japanese desires and American necessities.

Fire District Orders New Tanker Truck

The contract for the 1,000-gallon tanker, equipped with a 750-gallons-a-minute pump, was awarded to Sutphen Co. of Columbus. Although the bid of $14,397 was second low, the board awarded the contract to Sutphen Co. because of its availability to the district and service personnel. It may be a year before the tanker-pumper arrives from the factory.

The contract for the chassis, costing $5,675, had been previously awarded to Kenny Hannan, Circleville Ford dealer.

Stay Execution Of Jemison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Franklin County Court of Appeals has stayed the execution of convicted killer Richard Jemison. The execution had been set for June 6.

Ted Peyster, assignments clerk of the court, said Jemison's attorney, Jerry Weiner, would be given until June 5 to file a brief in his case for a permanent stay.

He said the Franklin County prosecutor's office would have until June 20 to answer Weiner's brief.

The case will be argued before the court on June 24. Jemison was convicted in the May 10 1965 killing of his wife, Virginia. He was also charged, but not tried, in the death of a Columbus pharmacist, John Lyman, on the same date.

The June 6 execution date had been set by Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judges Leonard Stern and Myron Geseman who turned down a post-conviction appeal.

He has had two previous stays of execution.

Viet War Costs Top $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam is fast becoming a hundred-billion-dollar war.

Government figures show the 1970 defense budget will add $25.4 billion to officially admitted expenses dating back to 1965, raising the price of the conflict to $108.2 billion.

Hidden or indirect costs probably add hundreds of millions to the real expense of the war, although the scope of these items is sometimes difficult to assess because of official secrecy.

For example, the American government is doing out millions in economic assistance to reinforce such Vietnam border countries as Thailand and Laos which could sway the balance of power in the area.

The Pentagon budget jumps admitted Vietnam war costs under a category entitled "Estimated Special Support for Southeast Asia Operations."

This covers the acknowledged U.S. expenses of maintaining dozens of ships, hundreds of planes and helicopters and 634,000 military personnel in and off Vietnam and outlying areas; certain military assistance in the way of weapons and equipment to not only Vietnam but also Thailand and Laos; and outright grants of foodstuffs and other materials to Vietnam which have totaled over $1 billion since 1965.

The Southeast Asia category

does not, however, fully reflect some other war-related expenses such as construction of the Thai-owned airfield near Sattahip, Thailand, which the United States built in 1965 to handle KC135 tankers and B52 bombers flying missions into Laos and South Vietnam. This base cost well over $150 million.

The general financial book-keeping for the war back to fiscal 1965, which began in mid-1964, reads this way:

In 1965—$103 million; 1966, $6.094 billion; 1967, $20.557 billion; 1968, $26.839 billion; 1969, $29.192 billion; and, proposed for fiscal 1970, $25.4 billion.

The U.S. cost for fighting the 37-month Korean War was about $18 billion. The American cost for World War II ran about $250 billion a day.

The figures for the current war include economic aid to Vietnam ranging from $282 million to $424 million during the war years.

The budget figures no longer show, however, the old Military Assistance Program costs for Vietnam. MAP expenses were absorbed in the defense budget in 1967 when they were running around $800 million per year.

Officials say this rate has tripled, or by about $1.8 billion. This pays for guns, ammunition and other military equipment the United States is turning over to Saigon.

The amount of military aid provided to supposedly neutral Laos is classified but is believed to running at a rate of $100 million a year.

Outright military assistance to Thailand apparently is somewhat less than Laos although it has doubled in the past four years. Officials say military aid to the Thais rose from $38.3 million a year in 1965 to $75 million last year.

In 1965—$103 million; 1966, $6.094 billion; 1967, $20.557 billion; 1968, $26.839 billion; 1969, $29.192 billion; and, proposed for fiscal 1970, $25.4 billion.

Foundation Free-Wheelers Target Of Tax Reformers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is moving to restrict free-wheelers among foundations and wealthy individuals who wipe out income tax liability with big donations to charity.

These were highlights in the committee's first progress report on its tax reform deliberations. The repeal emphasized decisions made so far are sub-merged still is to be covered to review and that much needed. The committee goes back to work Tuesday.

On the other side of the ledger, the committee proposed a better break for employers or employees who are hit with heavy moving expenses because of job shifts.

Foundations, under criticism in recent months because of controversial grants by some of them, would be hit from several angles if the committee's preliminary proposals became law.

They would, for the first time, be subject to a 5 per cent tax on their income from investments, although gifts they receive would remain exempt.

Foundations would be barred from making study and travel grants directly to individuals, but they could do so through colleges that selected the grantees. Foundations also would be prohibited from directly financing voter registration drives.

They would not be allowed to own more than 20 per cent of the stock of any one corporation.

They would be rigidly barred from self-dealing with donors. This provision would stop such transactions as a donor selling property to or buying from his foundation, or borrowing money from his foundation.

Akron Police Quell 2-Hour Mob Outbreak

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A motorcycleist was shot and wounded and some stores and cars were damaged by roving gangs of youths on the Southeast Side late Tuesday night, police reported. There were no arrests.

The violence occurred in a racially mixed neighborhood along South Arlington Street, but police said the gangs were predominantly black.

Charles Kindig, 39, of Akron told police he was shot in the arm and the headlight of his motorcycle was shot out. He said several youths beat him when he stopped and then set his motorcycle afire. Kindig was treated at a hospital and released. Damage to his motorcycle was estimated at $1,300.

Windows were shot out at the View Lunch restaurant and at a nearby apartment, but no one was injured. The restaurant was closed and the apartment was unoccupied at the time.

Police said a shack in an unoccupied used car lot and an awning at a meat market were set afire.

Two motorists reported that their cars were damaged by thrown objects. Damage to the cars was estimated at $75 and $100.

Thirty-five policemen were assigned to the area in quelling the violence, which lasted about two hours.

Earlier Tuesday two fire bombs were thrown against wooden doors at the V&M Market on the near Southwest Side. Damage there was estimated at $400.

Troop Pullout

As vital to American or Western European security in an era of rockets and missiles.

As a starter on troop cut-backs, Mansfield proposed, the Nixon administration set a fixed date—possibly 1972—for a change in the status of Okinawa, which the Japanese want to reclaim.

"It's the most important question in Japan today and we will ignore it at our own peril," he said.

He conceded that freedom of American action on Okinawa, which has been used as a basing point for B52 attacks on Vietnam and as a port of call for U.S. nuclear submarines, must be preserved at least until after the Vietnam war is ended.

The issue will come before President Nixon in this week's visit to Washington of Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi.

Fulbright said that from personal talks with Japanese officials he believes the issue can be compromised between Japanese desires and American necessities.

Fire District Orders New Tanker Truck

The contract for the 1,000-gallon tanker, equipped with a 750-gallons-a-minute pump, was awarded to Sutphen Fire Equipment Co. of Columbus. Although the bid of $14,397 was second low, the board awarded the contract to Sutphen Co. because of its availability to the district and service personnel. It may be a year before the tanker-pumper arrives from the factory.

The contract for the chassis, costing $5,675, had been previously awarded to Kenny Hannan, Circleville Ford dealer.

Stay Execution Of Jemison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Franklin County Court of Appeals has stayed the execution of convicted killer Richard Jemison. The execution had been set for June 6.

Ted Peyster, assignments clerk of the court, said Jemison's attorney, Jerry Weiner, would be given until June 5 to file a brief in his case for a permanent stay.

He said the Franklin County prosecutor's office would have until June 20 to answer Weiner's brief.

The case will be argued before the court on June 24.

Jemison was convicted in the May 10 1965, killing of his wife, Virginia. He was also charged, but not tried, in the death of a Columbus pharmacist, John Lyman, on the same date.

The June 6 execution date had been set by Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judges Leonard Stern and Myron Gessman who turned down a post-conviction appeal.

Viet War Costs Top $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam is fast becoming a hundred-billion-dollar war.

Government figures show the 1970 defense budget will add $25.4 billion to officially admitted expenses dating back to 1965, raising the price of the conflict to $108.2 billion.

Hidden or indirect costs probably add hundreds of millions to the real expense of the war, although the scope of these items is sometimes difficult to assess because of official secrecy.

For example, the American government is doling out millions in economic assistance to reinforce such Vietnam border countries as Thailand and Laos which could sway the balance of power in the area.

The Pentagon budget lumps admitted Vietnam war costs under a category entitled "Estimated Special Support for Southeast Asia Operations."

This covers the acknowledged U.S. expenses of maintaining dozens of ships, hundreds of planes and helicopters and 634,000 military personnel in and off Vietnam and outlying areas; certain military assistance in the way of weapons and equipment to not only Vietnam but also Thailand and Laos; and outright grants of foodstuffs and other materials to Vietnam which have totaled over $1 billion since 1965.

The Southeast Asia category

does not, however, fully reflect some other war-related expenses such as construction of the Thai-owned airfield near Sattahip, Thailand, which the United States built in 1965 to handle KC135 tankers and B52 bombers flying missions into Laos and South Vietnam. This base cost well over $150 million.

The general financial book-keeping for the war back to fiscal 1965, which began in mid-1964, reads this way:

In 1965—$103 million; 1966, $6.094 billion; 1967, $20.557 billion; 1968, $26.839 billion; 1969, $29.192 billion; and, proposed for fiscal 1970, $25.4 billion.

The U.S. cost for fighting the 37-month Korean War was about $18 billion. The American cost for World War II ran about $250 million a day.

The figures for the current war include economic aid to Vietnam ranging from $282 million to $424 million during the war years.

The budget figures no longer show, however, the old Military Assistance Program costs for Vietnam. MAP expenses were absorbed in the defense budget in 1967 when they were running around $600 million per year.

Officials say this rate has tripled, or by about $1.8 billion. This pays for guns, ammunition and other military equipment the United States is turning over to Saigon.

The amount of military aid provided to supposedly neutral Laos is classified but is believed to be running at a rate of $100 million a year.

Outright military assistance to Thailand apparently is some-

Gas Rates Upped
To County Users

Residents of Circleville, Ash-ville and South Bloomfield communities will pay 64 one-hundredths of a cent more per thousand cubic feet for natural gas beginning June 14, it was announced by Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc.

The adjustment reflects in-creases in the cost of gas from suppliers, which are passed on to customers through provision of the fuel cost clauses in the communities' contract with the gas company.

The increase will amount to about 10 cents a month for the average customer who heats his home with natural gas.

The Boston Celtics won the National Basketball Association title but they finished fourth in the Eastern Division, nine games behind Baltimore.
